AT SAVINGS OF $6,500
Civic Center Energy Use Slashed

Ray W. Foreaker Jr., director of public works, said there was a 40.2 per cent reduction in electrical consumption and a 33.1 per cent drop in natural gas use.

"This was the first (billing) period when we were heavily involved in energy conservation methods," he said, adding the figures were arrived at through comparison with the previous 30-day period.

He attributed the savings to lower temperatures throughout the hall of justice and administration building and a shutdown of boilers on weekends and holidays.

A reduction in lighting has helped, he said, but major savings are from less heating.

Some complaints have been voiced by employees, usually on Monday mornings before the buildings have warmed up, he said.

On a related matter, a spokesman for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. told supervisors the company is working to turn off parking lot lights when not in use late at night.

Currently, the parking lights remain on throughout the night because they are considered street lights which by law must stay on.

Foreaker said the power company has submitted an application to the California Public Utility Commission for a waiver of the requirement, but the application has not been acted upon.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere urged that the county not await a decision and douse the lights at the Veterans Memorial Building parking lot immediately.

Other supervisors agreed until told it would take a power company crew about half an hour of underground work each time the lights were to be turned off or on.

The company spokesman said ways are being studied to install an above ground on-and-off switch.

ANOTHER DELUGE OF RAIN IN AREA

Storm Brings Rash Of Road Mishaps, But No Serious Flooding Reported

By MARY LEYDECKER

A new wind-whipped storm swept into the Bay Area today, dumping torrential rains on Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, just one year from the date of last winter's most destructive storm.

Although this year's rainfall surpasses last year's total at this date, making this season the wettest one in years, today's storm was not as disastrous as the one of Jan. 16, 1973.

Lower tides and flood control work were credited for the lack of major problems.

The California Highway Patrol, however, reported deep waters on low-lying sections of Highway 101 this morning and warned motorists to avoid the flats south of San Rafael, the Greenbrae area and North San Pedro Road at Merrydale Road, if possible.

In West Marin, Shoreline Highway from Nick's Cove to Tomales was reported impassable due to high water and wind.

A rash of fender-bender accidents on Highway 101 accompanied the commuter rush today, with cars piling into each other on Puerto Suello Hill and Alto Hill as well as on Doyle Drive in San Francisco.

"The water causes cars to hydroplane (become waterborne), and then they (some drivers) panic, hit the brakes and skid," a highway patrol officer explained.

The staff in the emergency room at Marin General Hospital treated "numerous" persons injured in traffic accidents this morning, but said none of the injuries appeared serious.

At mid-morning there were no reports of flooding in Novato, which was hit by heavy flooding along Novato Creek at this time last year.

The creek has been cleared of debris and silt since last year's storms, according to Charles E. Murphy, county flood control

Taco Bell Will Get A Review

The Novato City Council, which rejected a controversial Taco Bell restaurant a week ago, agreed last night to reconsider that decision. (Another Novato Council story, page 22.)

Councilman George C. Quesada, who said he had "done considerable soul searching" since the original vote, moved that the matter be reconsidered.

The proposed mission style restaurant at the southwest corner of Grant Avenue and Machin Street had been turned down because of its architectural style which officials thought would not be in harmony with other buildings in Novato Square.

Quesada, who voted against the restaurant, said he wasn't "sure we have explored all

Low San Anselmo Growth Is Asked

By NELS JOHNSON

The San Anselmo City Council last night told city planners it would like to see growth in the city and its environs limited to 30 new units a year.

Councilman voted 3-2 to ask the commission to base San Anselmo's emerging municipal general plan on that growth rate. The recommendation will go to George Gatter, city general plan consultant charged with drafting the plan.

Mayor Lewis W. Stewart and Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro opposed the move, saying the council needed more information on city housing needs before establishing a growth rate figure, according to Stewart.

"To establish a figure without having seen the housing element report (of the general plan) is putting the cart before the horse," Stewart said.

The council majority, however, said a proposed growth rate figure is needed to guide Gatter and the city's citizens committee in drafting the new plan.

Councilman Martin G. Blinder was joined by colleagues Kenneth L. Anderson and Warren R. Perry in approving the resolution. It states that, "in view of the prospective levels of air, water, noise, soil and conservation problems . . . and to assist in developing San Anselmo's general plan, the city council recommends a maximum annual growth rate of 20 units within the city limits of San Anselmo" and 10 units annually in its adjacent county sphere of influence areas.

City Atty. Hadden W. Roth told the council before the vote that the approval of the growth rate would not be legally binding since it was merely aimed

Two Supervisors Propose Houseboat Clean-Up Plan

A redevelopment project to "clean up" the controversial houseboat colonies in Richardson Bay was proposed yesterday by two Marin County supervisors who won board support for preliminary studies.

"This is the proper use of redevelopment," Supervisor Michael Wornum said in suggesting the idea, also recommended by colleague Robert A. Roumiguiere.

Wornum said he will ask the Marin County Redevelopment Agency, which is nearing completion of its redevelopment project in Marin City, to do a "feasibility study" on Richardson Bay.

Such a project has long been privately promoted by Roumiguiere, who has called the houseboat community a "cancer in the heart of Marin."

Until yesterday, it appeared he was the only supervisor interested in using redevelopment. Others maintained they would rather work with property owners to upgrade the Waldo Point area.

For years, the county had a running battle with several property owners over inadequate water, sewage and other facilities but agreement was reached in 1972 for private improvements to houseboat marinas.

Roumiguiere said he envisions using either federal funds or local property tax revenues

Kissinger Is Hopeful For Mideast Success

ASWAN, Egypt (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew back to Aswan from Israel today and met immediately with President Anwar Sadat in talks he said could "perhaps eliminate" the gap between the two sides.

American officials traveling with Kissinger said they were optimistic about the outcome of his efforts. They said they believed most of the major problems on disengagement were out of the way.

In Cairo the U.N. announced that Egyptian and Israeli troops battled so fiercely on the outskirts of Suez City yesterday that U.N. troops had to evacuate one position and arrange a local cease-fire. A spokesman said the troops used artillery, mortars, machine gun, tank and antitank fire.

The first question newsmen asked Kissinger at the airport, where his plane arrived from Jerusalem, was how the gap between the Egyptian and Israeli troops disengagement proposals stood now.

"I think in answer to your question that the gap is narrowing and I am coming here with hopes to narrow it even further or perhaps eliminate it," he said.

Mills Proposes State Takeover Of Local Transportation Planning

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to have the state take over planning and construction of all local transit has been introduced by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

The measure, SB 1539, would apply as well to the Golden Gate Bridge District and Marin County Transit District. It also would allow transit districts to turn over to the state operation and maintenance of their systems.

The bill will bring to a head a growing debate in the Reagan administration over how much the state should get involved in transit as its huge freeway construction program comes to an end. The governor traditionally supports private enterprise — which can be expected to fight the Mills bill —while state engineers argue they can handle transit at less cost to the taxpayers.

Mills, introducing his bill Monday, acknowledged it would preserve many of the jobs held by approximately 3,000 employees to be laid off soon by the Department of Transportation. The California State Employees Association helped draft the measure.

Mills said the principal advantages of his proposal would be to save money by standardizing mass transit construction throughout the state and pool engineering reosurces.

He cited the problems of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, which he said "has suffered the pitfalls of privately contracting out all design, planning, engineering and other related work. The system has experienced unnecessary failures and design shortcomings," he declared.

The state already has "a vast reservoir of engineering talents and technological skills. These people have established a remarkable record of efficiency in building the California highway system," Mills said.

"It is a relatively simple matter to redirect their talents and skills to mass transit system development," he said.

State engineers have noted that, while the overall state

San Rafael Against Any Tele-Vue Rate Increase

A corporation's bid to boost cable television fees of San Rafael subscribers has drawn the disapproval of the city administration.

"The staff of the city cannot support the request for a rate increase proposal as submitted by Tele-Vue Systems Inc.," according to a detailed analysis of the firm's proposal by the city administration.

The company proposes to hike rates for 9,500 municipal subscribers from $5 to $6 monthly for primary cable outlets, and from $1 to $1.50 for each additional cable a subscriber might require. In addition, raising apartment unit monthly fees from $2.50 to $4 is proposed, as well as boosting various miscellaneous service fees.

But the city administration has questioned the validity of Tele-Vue's franchise with San Rafael, the corporation's claim that San Rafael subscribers must bear the burden of its New York office administrative costs, and the corporation's practice of billing customers two months in advance.

Gas Rationing Unlikely If Savings Remain High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If American drivers continue to save gasoline and if domestic refining holds up, the nation can get through its energy pinch without rationing gasoline, federal officials said today.

Not only this, they said, but there will be enough heating oil to go around this winter unless the weather turns unusually severe, and provided that most Americans keep thermostats 6 degrees lower than last winter.

The officials said it is likely the final decision on gasoline rationing will not have to be made until summer brings peak demand.

John C. Sawhill, deputy director of the Federal Energy Office, outlined more details today of a standby rationing system, to be put into effect only if and when needed.

Sawhill said an improvement in the energy situation was necessary to avoid rationing, "and we're getting an improvement."

With drivers' cooperation and other conservation measures, plus continuing generally mild weather and a leak in Arab oil countries' embargo of shipments to the United States, said Sawhill, "we feel that we are going to avoid rationing."

As for heating oil, Sawhill said yesterday: "If we get a colder than normal winter, we could run short." But he added that if the weather is normal, the threat of a general shortage would disappear.

Big Amounts Of Gas Bought

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians bought record amounts of gasoline last October and November despite warnings of a shortage, according to the latest state figures.

But the totals show that the November increase was considerably smaller than October's.

The tax-collecting Board of Equalization said yesterday that gasoline deliveries in the state totalled 849.6 million gallons in November, up 2.9 per cent from a year ago, and 886.1 million gallons in October, an increase of 5.4 per cent from the previous October.

HEAVY RAINS HIT NORTHWEST

This pedestrian in Salem, Ore., found a dry route across a bridge spanning Mill Creek this morning as high waters caused by heavy rains sent rivers out of their banks in several areas of the Pacific Northwest. Back-to-back storms dumped up to four inches of rain in parts of Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and California and mild temperatures added to the problem by melting snowpacks at lower levels. Three Amtrak trains were halted by the flooding and 250 persons were evacuated from their homes in Oregon, where Gov. Tom McCall declared a "state of disaster." (UPI Telephoto)

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Jakarta Protesters Dispersed

JAKARTA (UPI) — Troops firing automatic rifles and teargas grenades today drove back tens of thousands of Indonesians trying to march on downtown Jakarta to protest the visit of Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

Tanaka

It was the second day of bloody, student-led rioting in the Indonesian capital, with authorities reporting at least eight persons dead and 35 injured.

Indonesian officials said hundreds of vehicles have been destroyed, 10 buildings set on fire and more than 50,000 shops burned and looted.

Oil Documents Release Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has asked the State and Justice departments to make public 69 documents he says show the Eisenhower and Truman administrations disregarded anti-trust laws to let U.S. oil companies exploit Arab petroleum.

Church

Church's aides made available yesterday copies of letters written to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Attorney General William B. Saxbe asking for declassification of some documents and release of others under the Freedom of Information Act.

Church also asked the Arabian American Oil Co. and the Exxon Corp. to supply some of their own internal correspondece and documents.

State Department spokesmen said they would "respond" to Church's request.

Rail Walkout

LONDON (UPI) — Railroad engineers ended a 24-hour walk out today, but industrial tur moil raged in Britain, with sub way workers taking a strik vote and coal miners maintain ing a crippling slowdown.

The nation's 29,000 trainmer returned to work today, ending their second one-day walkout ir five days. The engineers, how ever, kept up a month-old slow down aimed at winning pay demands.

London's 10,000 subway em ployes voted to strike Feb. 4 and shut down the city's mass transit system unless authori ties grant a $14.49 million pay boost.

Campus Blast

BILBAO, Spain (UPI) — Police said today a bomb damaged a computer center on the campus of the Jesuit Deusto University in Spain's troublesome Basque region.

The police said no one was injured in the 4 a.m. blast which caused an estimated $500,000 in damage.

While police and demolition experts investigated the bomb blast, about 200 students bombarded a faculty building with rocks and eggs and smashed a door to the dean's office in protest against the expulsion of three students for their participation in recent campus unrest, the news agency Europa Press reported.

More Latins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Burea has recounted the number of Americans of Spanish descent and discovered 1.5 million more — 17 per cent — than it counted in the 1970 population count.

The latest count, taken last March, listed 10.58 million persons claiming Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban or other Latin background compared to 9.07 million in the overall U.S. population tally four years ago.

The reason for the increase, a census official said yesterday, was the natural growth of the population plus new survey techniques that do a better job of definite classification.

Bridges Bombed

BELFAST (UPI) — Two bombs blasted bridges today near Portadown, 30 miles southwest of Belfast, an army spokesman said.

One bridge, a road bridge, was badly damaged by a blast from a bomb left in a car parked on the bridge, the spokesman said. The other, a railway bridge, received only superficial damage from a car bomb which blew up near it.

Viet Battles

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese troops killed 107 Communist troops today in three fierce battles in the Central Highlands province of Pleiku, the Saigon command said.

Command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said government infantry forces killed 56 Communists in two battles in the northeast and southwest corners of the province, which is 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

Hien said advancing government forces also killed 51 North Vietnamese six miles southeast of the Le Minh ranger base and seized 12 weapons.

Holton Chosen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has decided to nominate Linwood Holton, governor of Virginia until last week, to be Assistant Secretary of State for Congressional Relations, according to administration officials.

Holton's nomination to hold the State Department's post as chief liaison officer with Congress is expected to be sent to the Senate for confirmation within a few days, the officials said.

Butz Says Never To $1 For Bread

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said yesterday Americans will never have to pay $1 for a loaf of bread.

"We are going to have 2.1 and maybe even 2.2 billion bushels of wheat in another two months from our present crop," Butz said. "We are going to get through the next few weeks okay.

"The American housewife will never have to even worry about paying $1 for a loaf of bread in our supermarkets," he said.

Tape Gap Rekindles Impeachment Talk

Nixon's Counsel Blocks Answers To Questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A technical panel says it doesn't know who caused an 18 minute buzz on one of President Nixon's key Watergate tapes, but it does know the tape was erased by starting and stopping a tape recorder at least five and perhaps nine times.

The report immediately brought one prediction of possible extra Senate Watergate hearings and another of increased impeachment pressure.

In a federal court hearing yesterday the experts were blocked by White House lawyers from answering Chief Judge John J. Sirica's question: "Was the 18 minute buzz caused by accident, or was it deliberately done?"

"We have no view as to who did what for what reason," Dr. Thomas J. Stockham Jr., of the University of Utah, one of the six experts jointly named by Nixon's lawyers and the Watergate prosecutors, said.

But when the prosecutors and Sirica tried several times to determine if the two-month technical study could determine a deliberate pattern of actions to erase the tape, they were blocked by James St. Claire, the President's new chief Watergate lawyer.

"I object to your honor's question because there's no basis in the previous testimony in the hearings to indicate any way it could be done deliberately," St. Clair said.

Sirica withdrew the question, and the prosecutors decided to continue the hearings this week, starting with testimony today from two Secret Service agents, Lou Sims and Alfred Wong. Assistant Prosecutor Jill W. Volner said the two, who set up the White House taping system and had custody of the tapes, would be quizzed about who had access to the Watergate-related recordings.

The experts concluded that the tapes had been erased, and that at one time a conversation between Nixon and his chief aide H.R. Haldeman probably existed on the tape. They said the 18 minutes was not erased all at once, but in at least five stages and possibly as many as nine, by someone who first pushed the "record" button, which would erase the previous conversation, and then, the stop button, which would stop the tape.

"Would this pattern be consistent with a person operating the machine to erase the tape, stopping the machine (and backing up) to make sure nothing was not erased, and then going on with the erasure?" assistant Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste asked.

"Yes, they'd be thoroughly consistent with that," said Dr. Richard H. Bolt, president of a Cambridge, Mass., electronics firm.

Three members of the Senate Watergate committee—Republican Vice Chairman Howard Baker of Tennessee and Democrats Joseph W. Montoya of New Mexico and Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii—all said they were deeply concerned over the report's showing the tape was erased.

Baker, who only a week ago said the committee may never resume its public hearings into Watergate, said the body "very possibly" may schedule extra hearings on the tape erasure.

"If the net effect is what is appears to be—that is, that it was not accidental—it would be very, very serious indeed," Baker said.

In Los Angeles, former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson said the report may intensify impeachment efforts.

THOMAS G. STOCKHAM
One of the experts

The White House said it was studying a summary of the report and "it would be altogether incorrect and improper for premature judgments or conclusions to be reached in the absence of any judicial decision and while the (judicial) process is still under way."

The tape involved was of a Nixon-Haldeman meeting June 20, 1972, the first White House working day after five agents of the Nixon re-election campaign were caught breaking into Democratic National headquarters at the Watergate complex. Haldeman's notes of the meeting, introduced in the court hearing earlier, show that Watergate was discussed during the obliterated 18 ½ minute segment.

The experts report made these main points:

Magnetic signs on the tape show the buzzing sounds were "put on the tape in the process of erasing and re-recording at least five, and perhaps as many as nine separate and contiguous segments ... That could not have been produced by any single, continuous operation."

JAMES ST. CLAIR
Blocks questions

The buzzing sound itself came from noise picked up from the electrical power line to which the recorder was connected. This contradicted the earlier White House explanation that it was caused by a typewriter and high intensity lamp on the desk of Nixon's secretary, Rose Mary Woods, who transcribed the tapes.

That the erasure could only be made by pushing buttons on the tape recorder. Miss Woods said that she may have accidently erased a portion of the tape by leaving her foot on a foot pedal of the recorder while on the telephone. But the experts said the foot pedal operation would not have left the magnetic signs they found on the tape.

Nixon Reported In Good Health

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's doctor says a brief physicial examination shows him to be in good health, but he wants the President to undergo a complete checkup which Nixon recently postponed.

Dr. Walter Tkach, an Army brigadier general, gave the President the brief checkover Monday and said Nixon's heart is in good condition, his pulse normal and his chest clear.

Tkach said he wanted to talk to Nixon today about taking the comprehensive physical examination that Nixon postponed several days before Christmas.

MAURICE BRAVERMAN

Repentance Question In Disbarment

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Twenty-four years after Maurice L. Braverman left the Communist Party, a judge still wanted to know yesterday whether he would repent his past "wrongdoing."

"What sort of remorse do we have?" Judge Marvin H. Smith asked, when Braverman appeared before the seven-judge Maryland Court of Appeals to request readmission to the bar.

"He must manifest a sense of wrongdoing," the judge said.

Braverman has refused to apologize for his 1934-55 membership because he "never did anything wrong or illegal."

"I was young and curious and wanted to see what the Communist Party had to offer," he said recently. "I was under the impression it allowed more personal liberties than our system. When I found out I was wrong, I quit."

John F. King, Braverman's attorney, told the court his client had never argued that he was innocent.

"The basic standard is whether he has been rehabilitated. The panel has already been satisfied that he met all the requirements," King told the court.

He said, in view of subsequent Supreme Court decisions, "Mr. Braverman probably would not even be indicted today."

Braverman was disbarred in 1955, after serving 18 months in prison for violating the Subversive Activities Act by being an admitted Communist. A three-judge panel determined more than a month ago that he has "established by clear and convincing proof his fitness to practice law."

The panel had also noted that "since the petitioner is adamant in his belief in his innocence, he is consistent in not expressing any repentance. While he seems to hinder his cause by not taking what might be an easier way of confession and contrition, the intellectual honesty of his position must be recognized."

Sausalito Council Orders Slide Work

The Sausalito City Council last night ordered repair of an earthslide that threatens the aged Casa Madrona Hotel.

Crocker National Bank must fix the slide damage within 30 days or the city will undertake the project and charge the bank for the work, councilmen unanimously agreed.

A discussion of alternatives to condemning the hotel — believed one of the oldest building in Sausalito —was postponed until next Tuesday.

Mayor Robin Sweeny informed her colleagues that a committee studying the problem has not had time to review an engineering report on the safety of the hotel prepared by Public Works Director Norman Wohlschlaeger.

Casa Madrona, located at 156 Bulkley Avenue on a steep slope that slants down to Bridgeway, was weakened by mudslides accompanying heavy rains last January. A previous report by engineers hired by the bank concluded that the building is no longer safe for public use.

The property is owned by the estate of Floyd D. Allensby and the bank became executor following Allensby's death last May.

Councilmen abandoned an early plan to postpone ordering slide repairs after hearing complaints by Wohlschlaeger and several property owners affected by the moving hillside.

"It gets worse every day," Wohlschlaeger said. "The slide must be stopped right now and so far they (the bank) haven't turned over one shovel of dirt."

Property owners pointed out that the slide has posed a threat since last year and that any further delay could not be justified.

Attorney for the bank, Kim Clark, told councilmen his client would begin work to shore up the hillside and install drains to carry off rainwater.

Councilman Evert H. Heynneman said it is conceivable that the bank could repair the slide and still tear down the Casa Madrona.

Councilmen advised Clark that public sentiment favors saving the hotel.

The 12-room hotel, which also houses Le Vivoir restaurant, has been operated for the past 15 years by the Robert Deschamps family. Last month, the council told the Deschamps they could remain in business until a decision is reached on whether to condemn the building.

Television Cable Firm Gets Hike

Sausalito city councilmen last night granted a $1.50 per month rate increase to a cable television company operating in the southern portion of the city.

In unanimously approving the rate hike, councilmen also permitted transfer of the Martin's Community Antenna System franchise to new owner Olive Cushman.

The council directed city staff to study the feasibility of exempting persons on fixed incomes from the increase, which raises rates from $5 to $6.50 per month. The system serves about 600 subscribers.

Howard Cushman, who will operate the system with his wife, said that without the hike the business would not be profitable.

He pointed out that the rate increase is the same granted to Televue Systems, which provides cable service to the remainder of the city.

The Sausalito City Council also:

GLEN GROVE — Approved a tentative condominium map for the proposed Glen Grove development at 265 Santa Rosa Avenue on condition that the project include 40 parking spaces and no more than 12 units. Mayor Robin Sweeny voted no and Councilman Evert H. Heynneman abstained.

YACHT CLUB — Unanimously granted the Sausalito Yacht Club a variance to build a 400 square foot addition that will house a sailing school for youngsters. The variance had been denied by planning commissioners.

SEWER — Asked the city attorney for an opinion on whether the city is responsible for relocating a sewer line mistakenly constructed on property owned by Sol Langsam on Santa Rosa Avenue. Langsam had requested that the city move the line so that he could build on the lot.

John Stuber Citizen Of Year In Novato

John G. Stuber, described as "one of Novato's hardest workers" has been named Novato's 1973 Citizen of the Year, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported today.

Stuber, manager of the Murray-McCormick Environmental Group, will be honored at the city's 14th anniversary dinner-dance at 7 p.m. Friday at the Novato Community House.

The 46-year-old citizen of the year is "the kind of person who remains in the background," but "is involved in several projects at one time," according to Brown.

Stuber worked for passage of the North Marin County Water District and Novato Flood Control Zone bond measures last year.

As Novato Rotary Club chairman for senior citizen housing, he has been instrumental in developing plans for a 20-to-30 unit housing complex for senior citizens. He also worked on development of Miwok Park and two tot lots.

Stuber is a director of the Novato Boy's Club and was active in the club's fund-raising campaign. He also helped to develop the Novato General Plan.

He was selected from five candidates for the honor.

Stuber was 1973 president of the Marin County Council of Engineers. He has been a resident of Novato for 17 years and lives at 84 Baca Vista. He is a widower and has four children, Karen, John, Michael and Janet.

Judge May Give Tapes To Jury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John J. Sirica said today he is considering turning over to a grand jury the question of how an 18 ½ minutes segment was erased from one of President Nixon's Watergate tape recordings. (See related story, page 2.)

At the White House, a presidential spokesman declared that there was no erasure—deliberate or accidental—of the tape by Nixon himself, and urged the public not make "premature judgments" about the causes of the obliteration.

Sirica's comment about a possible grand jury inquiry came during sharp exchange between the assistant special Watergate prosecutor, Richard Ben-Veniste, and Charles S. Rhyne, lawyer for Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's private secretary who was asked by the President last fall to transcribe some of the taped conversations.

Said Sirica: "I have to decide —I might as well as tell you in open court—whether or not I'm going to recommend to the special prosecutor this case should be submitted or whether the special prosecutor should seriously consider going to the grand jury...

"I want to hear all evidence. That's the decision I have to make. I'll make that decision in due course."

possibilities" and wondered if Taco Bell could change its architectural plans.

He expressed hope that there could be "a meeting of the minds and something could be done to modity the design" to meet city requirements.

Ben R. Ostlind of San Rafael, the applicant, said he thought it was "worth a try," and the matter was continued for 30 days by unanimous vote.

Quesada last week offered to call for a two-month continuance to give the new council, chosen in the March election, a chance to act on the application, but Ostlind at that time rejected the offer.

Taco Bell was turned down last week by a 3-to-2 vote with Mayor Fred F. Ruegg and Councilman Dorothy P. Young dissenting.

Ruegg, who has contended that Novato has a reputation as being antibusiness, last night rapped the Novato Downtown Plan.

"Novato's downtown plan, rather than being a stimulant to commercial construction, continues to be one of the serious inhibitions (to business)," he said.

Reugg said that, according to reports from the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, there has been a sharp drop in commercial construction since the downtown plan was adopted in April 1971.

From 1965 to 1970 commercial construction in Novato averaged 14.8 per cent of all commercial construction in Marin, he said. In 1971, it represented 4.5 per cent, in 1972, 3.4 per cent and last year 4.6 per cent, Ruegg reported.

to purchase private property, remove the houseboats and sell back some of the land for private development of yacht harbors, bayside restaurants and similar projects.

"It might be 10 years away but we got a start on it today," he said.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said financing of the project could be handled by the same methods being used by the city of San Rafael.

The city has mapped out a redevelopment area and "frozen" assessed valuation at last year's level for other taxing agencies.

Tax revenues that normally would go to those other agencies from future increases in the area's assessed valuation are to be diverted to the redevelopment project to finance improvement bonds.

County Administrator John F. Barrows, meanwhile, said legislation pending in Washington also might provide funds for such a project.

A definitive vote on the matter may come as early as June, when the council will either adopt or reject a growth lid or controls as part of the new general plan, Stewart said.

Gatter had sought council guidance in the matter, asking city officials whether they wished to have a "no, slow or go" growth policy.

Councilman Martin G. Blinder at first urged colleagues to adopt a zero growth policy, but dropped the proposed after fellow councilmen balked at it.

Stewart said he supports a slow growth policy in the city, but believed that colleagues were "pulling a figure out of the air without facts to base it on."

About 25 audience members appeared divided on the issue, with some supporting a growth lid and others opposed to establishing a figure now, according to Stewart.

Recommended growth of 30 units annually in the San Anselmo planning area is about half "of our present actual growth rate," according to City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel.

STORM

engineer, and lower tides also helped the situation.

Murphy warned, though, that he expects flooding along Warner Creek at Diablo Avenue and along Arroyo Avichi if heavy rains continue.

In Tiburon, the high tide at about 6 a.m. threatened flooding, but bay waters receded before the heart of the storm struck.

At Hamilton Air Force Base, officials said their radar showed a "huge mass of water laden air from five miles south of the base to out at sea," indicating more drenching.

By 11 a.m. today, 1.34 inches of rain had fallen in San Rafael in the new storm, bringing the season's rainfall total to 36.01 inches and surpassing last year's figure of 35.60 for this date. The average rainfall by Jan. 16 is 17.31.

Elsewhere in the state, warm rains were melting snow, causing rivers and streams to boil over their banks and forcing hundreds of families to flee their homes.

Along the Sacramento River, authorities said nearly 150 persons abandoned their homes in the Dunsmuir area in Siskiyou County after four inches of rain fell yesterday and early today. Water was four feet deep in some streets of the community, police said.

Schloegel To Speak Tonight

Albert J. Schloegel of Cotati, candidate for the Republican nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, will speak before the Marin County Young Republicans at 8 p.m. today at party headquarters, 915 Lootens Place, San Rafael.

Schloegel, a 23-year-old business consultant, is the only Republican who has announced his candidacy for the nomination. A. Alan Hill of San Rafael, deputy director of the state Agriculture and Services Agency, is expected to announce for the nomination soon.

BILL G. GRANT

Engineer Takes Job As Director

Bill G. Grant, administrative engineer for the Marin Municipal Water District, has resigned his job to become general manager of the Placer County Water Agency.

During his years with the district, Grant served as project manager for the construction of the Nicasio Dam and as project engineer for the Peters Dam at Kent Lake.

He and his wife and two youngsters will move from San Rafael to Auburn after the school year ends.

Grant will report to his new job Jan. 28.

The city administration scheduled another meeting with Tele-Vue officials for 1:30 p.m. Jan. 24 in city hall.

Bielser said that Tele-Vue has been sold twice since the city first granted the firm a franchise in 1966, both times without notifying the city council as required by city code. The action leaves the validity of the franchise uncertain, he said.

Corporation attorney Joseph Sheeks, however, claimed that although Tele-Vue is now a subsidiary of a firm called Viacom International Inc., Tele-Vue continues to hold the franchise since it still exists as a separate corporate entity.

The city administration has contended that Tele-Vue may be merely a paper corporation since "final decisions . . . policy directions . . . final budgets . . . and all hiring and firing of the top positions" are made by Viacom.

Bielser also said that it is unfair to hike fees in San Rafael because of rising administrative costs in New York, and noted that the New York office did not even exist when the city granted the franchise. He said that San Rafael is being charged $66,000, or 46 per cent of the rate hike proposal, for the cost of maintaining the New York office.

City staff also balked at the firm's practice of billing customers two months in advance, saying it is a method of extracting "free money" from San Rafael subscribers. Corporate representatives pledged to explore alternate billing methods, including a suggestion that the company bill only one month in advance and include a stamped return envelope with bill notices.

The San Rafael City Council will consider Tele-Vue's rate hike proposal at 8 p.m. Feb. 4 in city hall, as well as a city staff recommendation that the matter be postponed while an independent consultant studies the proposal and a citizens committee on cable television is formed.

The hiring of the consultants should be billed to Tele-Vue, according to the staff recommendation.

engineering cost for highway projects over $500,000 was 5.2 per cent between 1967 and 1971, engineering of the BART system cost 10.5 per cent of the system's total price tag.

They also noted the potential for scandal of having major public projects designed by private firms. Payoffs by engineering firms to public officials in Maryland led to the conviction of former Vice President President Spiro T. Agnew.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower, 77, has gone home after a two-week stay at Walter Reed Army Hospial for "a periodic physical evaluation."

OBITUARIES

Mass Set For Msgr. Cummins

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco for Msgr. Bernard A. Cummins, superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of San Francisco and former Marin Catholic High School teacher.

Monsignor Cummins died Monday in a San Francisco hospital after a long battle with leukemia. He was 48.

He had been schools superintendent since 1966, during a period in which the archdiocesan schools faced shrinking enrollments and tight money.

Monsignor Cummins was born in Oakland, the son of a family dedicated to the church. His brother, Msgr. John Cummins, is former chancellor of the Diocese of Oakland and now serves as executive secretary of the California Catholic Conference of Bishops in Sacramento.

His sister, Mary, was a num for years before leaving the Maryknoll order in order to marry.

Monsignor Cummins was reared in Oakland, attending school there and then St. Mary's College High School in Berkeley.

He also attended St. Joseph's College Seminary in Mountain View and graduated from St. Patrick's Seminary in Menlo Park.

After ordination in 1950, he became assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church in Stockton. A year later, he went to Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C., where he earned a master's degree in education.

He served on the faculty of Marin Catholic High School from 1952 to 1961, teaching religion, Spanish and English. He also was the school's athletic director and coached freshman football.

During his years at the Kentfield school, he directed a highly successful speech and drama program, in which the Marin students won many honors in Bay Area competition.

While teaching, the priest continued his education at the University of San Francisco, earning a secondary school teaching credential in 1955.

After leaving Marin, he was named vice principal at Serra High School in San Mateo and a year later was appointed assistant superintendent of the San Francisco Archdiocese schools and in 1966 was named superintendent.

He also served as vice president and later president of the National Catholic Education Association's superintendents' department and on the association's executive committee.

He was a member of the accrediting commission of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

Monsignor Cummins is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cummins of Berkeley; his brother, John, of Sacramento, and his sister, Mrs. Mary McCarthy of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at St. Agnes' Church, San Francisco. Burial will be Friday at Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma.

RICHARD MACK

Richard A. Mack Sr., a retired auto dealer and four-year Marin resident, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital following a long illness.

Mack, 87, was born in Iowa and grew up in California. He had been in the state for 74 years and at the time of his death resided at 7 Arroyo Avenue, San Anselmo.

Before coming to Marin, he lived in Oakhurst, Madera County, and in Fowler, Fresno County, where he had his auto dealership for more than 20 years.

Survivors include his wife, Edna Rae of San Anselmo; five sons, Robert Mack of Southern California, Richard A. Mack Jr. of Sacramento, William E. Mack of Culver City, Los Angeles County, and Helen J. Howell and Gladys E. Davis, both of Kingsburg, Fresno County; three sisters, Bessie Evans of Mill Valley, Millie Mack of Fresno and Hazel Poor of Fresno; 11 grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Private funeral was held today.

CYRIL EYNON

Cyril O. Eynon of Fairfax, longtime Musicians Union business representative, died yesterday in a local hospital after a short illness. He was 71.

Eynon was born in Salt Lake City, where he began a musical career, playing the saxophone with Red Nichols and His Five Pennies.

For many years he played in San Francisco at the Curran Theater and at such events as the Ice Follies. In addition, he had been business representative in Marin County for the Musicians Union Local No. 6 of San Francisco for 17 years before retiring from that job last year.

Eynon continued a locksmith-musical instrument repair business in Fairfax until his death.

He had lived in Marin 25 years. The family home is at 17 Madrone Court.

Eynon is survived by his wife, Cecelia; a daughter, Mrs. Karil Andrews of Mill Valley; two sisters, Mrs. Muriel Kockisch of Terra Linda and Mrs. Louise Walker of Long Beach, and a brother, Eyrick Eynon of Sonoma.

Memorial service will be at 4:30 p.m. Friday at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Marin County Heart Association.

WILLIAM RAUTIO

Funeral for William C. (Bill) Rautio of San Rafael, a custodian for the city's schools will be at 11 a.m. Friday at the Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

Rautio, 51, died Monday in a local hospital after a sudden illness.

He was a native of Belt, Mont., and had lived in Marin 18 years, residing at 225 Alpine Street. For the past eight years he had worked as a custodian for the San Rafael School District. He was a member of the California State Employees Association.

Rautio is survived by his wife, Annette; two daughters, Diana A. Bachelor of Sacramento and Myra A. Yerion of Forest Knolls, and three sons, Robert V. Andrus and Gordon E. Andrus, both of San Rafael and Keith B. Rautio, U.S. Army, of Colorado. He is also survived by six sisters, three brothers and six grandchildren.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

DEBORAH WOLF

A memorial service for Deborah Leigh Wolf of San Anselmo will be at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Berkeley Friends Church, 1600 Sacramento Street, Berkeley.

Miss Leigh, 22, died Jan. 9 in West Marin.

She was a native of Albany.

Music for the service will be provided by members of the Oakland Symphony.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Sierra Club, Junior Bach Festival or a favorite charity or organization.

Fill Permit Decision To Take Six Months

A final decision by the Army Corps of Engineers on a fill permit for the proposed Hahn regional shopping center in Corte Madera won't come for about six months, an Army spokesman said today.

Tom W. Crews said preparation of a final environmental impact report on the project and its submission to the federal Council for Environmental Quality would delay action on the permit until late August or early September.

Hahn is seeking to fill 28.2 acres of grasslands and marsh on a site east of Highway 101. About 500,000 cubic yards of dry fill would be placed in the area to prepare it for a shopping center with 930,600 square feet of floor space.

The preliminary impact report, released this week, shows the filling and the center will have some adverse effects on the environment.

The report said the center will bring increased local traffic, dust and noise and may decrease water and air quality slightly in the area.

The center would have only a slight adverse visual impact but would remove 45.2 acres of wildlife habitat and dislocate some wildlife species, according to the report.

It would also result in the need for increased police and fire protection and a decrease in sales at nearby shopping areas.

The report said the center would have some positive impact.

The town would receive 32 acres of marshland for open space, according to the study. Also, Marinites would drive fewer miles to shop and probably spend fewer dollars in San Francisco.

Cost Said Less For Tiburon To Join South Marin Sewer Group

By REBECCA LARSEN

It probably would be cheaper for the Tiburon Sanitary District and the City of Belvedere to join in building a combined Southern Marin sewage treatment plant than to try to handle their own wastewater, district board president James Murray said last night. He spoke at a special meeting to discuss the future of waste treatment on the Tiburon Peninsula.

Murray added, however, that the district board has yet to make up its mind and will begin discussing its possible choices at its Feb. 4 meeting.

Last night's meeting was a joint session of the board and the Belvedere City Council, held to review those choices, and included reports by John T. Schulte, administrator of the Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency, and Howard Way of the district's engineering firm, John Carollo of Walnut Creek.

Way told an audience of about 20 that the district could choose to continue its current wastewater treatment program. He said this alternative, although cheap, would lead to the eventual imposition of a sewer ban by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The second choice, said Way, is to improve sewage treatment at the Tiburon district plant, using either a system proposed by Bio-Kinetics of San Rafael or Zim-Pro, a subsidiary of Sterling Drugs.

The third choice the board is considering is joining in the Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency effort to build a joint treatment plant at Point San Quentin.

Way estimated the tax rates for Belvedere and Tiburon homeowners in 1977-78 would be 52 and 84 cents respectively per $100 assessed valuation under a joint Southern Marin system; 65 cents and $1.15 respectively under the Bio-Kinetics plan, and 71 cents and $1.25 respectively under the Zim-Pro system.

However, he said it was still not certain that the joint Southern Marin plan would be the least costly since no one knows how fast building costs will rise and whether the Southern Marin sanitary districts can get a federal grant to help finance the joint plant.

Way said there might be some risk if Tiburon and Belvedere go it alone since federal or state agencies eventually might require them to join a consolidated sewer district anyway.

Schulte said a refusal by the Tiburon district and Belvedere to join in building the combined plant would not be a serious financial handicap for the Southern Marin subregional agency.

Tiburon district President Murray said that for three or four years his district board has been seeking a way to retain its own plant and system but is not sure anymore that such independence is financially possible.

"We were worried about running a pipeline down Tiburon Boulevard and what its effect would be on the environment. But now it seems economically better to join the whole system," he said.

No matter what alternative is chosen, Murray said there should be strict limits set on how much taxing agencies can spend without going to voters for approval.

Representaitves of the Zim-Pro and Bio-Kinetics companies argued for their systems in spite of their apparently higher costs.

John Huls of Bio-Kinetics noted that his firm's system could be set up in 60 days while the joint Southern Marin plant would not be built until 1978.

Charles A. Richmond of Zim-Pro said his company's system already is in operation in a Wisconsin town where it has successfully handled even chemical wastes from a paper mill.

Brown's Oil Proposal Hit By Flournoy

—SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial contender Houston I. Flournoy said yesterday it was "unbelievably naive" of Democratic rival Edmund G. Brown, Jr. to propose that California form a government oil company.

"If we had a food shortage would he suggest the state take over all farms in California?" asked Flournoy, state controller and chairman of the tidelands-regulating State Lands Commission.

In testimony before the Public Utilities Commission Monday, Brown, the secretary of state, called for California to cancel offshore oil leases and form its own company to assure adequate fuel for municipal utilities.

Brown's proposal followed talk of similar ideas in the legislature and among some other Democrats.

At a Capitol news conference called to respond to the suggestions, Flournoy contended:

Any attempt to cancel leases would trigger lawsuits that might take years to resolve, by which time "the energy crisis may probably have come and gone."

If the leases were cancelled, the state still would have to buy or condemn equipment to drill, pump and refine oil, at a taxpayer cost of millions of dollars.

Even if California were able to refine its own oil, it is of the high-sulphur variety that cannot meet state air pollution standards.

No matter who produces the oil, it still is up to the federal government to allocate who uses it.

Flournoy called the suggestion for a state-owned petroleum company a "masquerade to the public" and said he was "appalled" that it would come from any government official. He said Brown's testimony "appears to be part of his press-release-a-day campaign for governor."

The controller partially agreed with Brown on the subject of imposing greater controls on the oil industry.

Brown suggested the industry be made a public utility. Flournoy said action should await completion of a federal probe into oil firms but added, "obviously there is a need to watch the activities of the petroleum companies."

Court Rules On Landlord Liability

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court ruled unanimously yesterday that landlords are legally required to maintain leased residences in liveable condition.

The decision came in a San Francisco case brought in September, 1972, when landlord Jack Sumski brought action against one of his tenants, Roger Gree, who failed to pay rent for more than a month.

Green admitted he had not paid the rent, but claimed the premises were not in a habitable condition. In support of his claim, Green submitted a copy of an inspection report by the San Francisco Department of Public Works disclosing some 80 housing code violations and an order from the department for a condemnation hearing for the building.

Serious conditions alleged by Green included collapse and non-repair of the bathroom ceiling, the continued presence of rats, mice and cockroaches, lack of heat in any of the apartment's four rooms, exposed wiring and stopped plumbing.

Sumski contended the tenant had a duty to continue paying rent anyway.

The trial court found in favor of the landlord. The ruling was reversed by the Supreme Court, which ordered the case retried "in accordance with the views expressed" in its 47-page decision.

Two Appointed To Mental Unit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed John C. McIvor of San Rafael and Mrs. Blandine Gordon of San Francisco to the Bay Area Mental Retardation Program Board.

The appointees will fill terms ending June 30 of Drs. Jerome P. Mednick of San Rafael and Richard C. Robbins of San Francisco, both of whom resigned.

The area V board represents Marin, San Francisco, Contra Costa and San Mateo counties.

Moretti Sees Mystery In Oil Contract Bids

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti said yesterday it was "mysteriously interesting" that bids on government oil contracts from large corporations have shown a pattern of consistently being the same.

Moretti, speaking at a news conference here, said these corporations, which he claimed are "consistently swallowing up smaller and independent companies and thereby eliminating their competition," should be forced to reveal their records.

Referring to what he called the "apparent energy crisis," Moretti said, "We must not allow this situation to occur again. The companies have to be forced to revea! their records to the government."

Moretti said the oil companies are monopolistic to a greater degree than any other corporations in the United States. He said the oil companies drill the raw product, refine it and then sell the finished product themselves.

Moretti said that in the past 20 years, the 11 largest oil companies have twice doubled their assets. He said in 1954 the assets of these companies were $17.4 billion. By 1965, assets had increased to $40.3 billion and by 1973 to $83.9 billion.

That is a total increase in assets of 382 per cent in less than 20 years, Moretti said.

Moretti said if the companies were highly competitive, "this avaricious policy of energy acquisition would be less alarming."

"When we put oil to bid, we find it mysteriously interesting that they come to the same bid." Moretti said the situation of these equal bids "has been a pattern of behavior for a long time."

"When bids come in and they're all the same, something's wrong," he added. Moretti said the Joint Committee on Public Domain was investigating the situation.

Moretti said that although he wanted controls on the oil industry, he did not favor nationalization of oil companies.

Fuel Black Market Claimed By Tunney

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. John V. Tunney said yesterday he is convinced a "black market" is operating in California for distillate fuels such as diesel oil at the same time oil companies insist there is a shortage.

The Democratic lawmaker said he learned of the "black market" during meetings with distillate users while on his current "energy crisis" tour of California.

At a news conference, he said users, whom he declined to identify, told him that they can obtain easily from the "black market" supplies of distillate fuels they cannot obtain under government allocations.

"I know there is a black market," he said.

Tunney said his Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Representation of Citizen interests will hold hearings Monday in San Diego and Tuesday in San Francisco to receive testimony on the "black market" issue.

Witnesses, he said, will include representatives of tuna boat operators, oil distributors, oil company suppliers, the federal Energy Office, Internal Revenue Service and Justice Department.

He said the hearings would seek to establish whether or not oil companies have stated their supplies at being lower than they actually are and, if so, "what happens to the surplus."

"I have to believe there is a significant surplus, but I don't have any proof of it," Tunney said.

Coffees Set

Campaign coffees for San Anselmo City Council candidate Lyn Fischbein will be at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Mary Donnelly home, 125 Calumet, and at 8 p.m. Monday at the Charles Prugh home, 36 Salinas.

PAUNCH PATROL

Mayor Orville Hubbard (center) of Dearborn, Mich., patted Jim Dick of the city's public works department on the stomach after Dick showed a weight loss of 14 pounds following the mayor's decree that all of his overweight staff must shed some pounds or face suspension. Hubbard was the biggest weight loser, taking off 17 pounds to get down to 266. Hubbard said weigh-ins will continue daily.

Sewer Line Problem In Novato Is Solved

A troublesome section of the Novato Sanitary District's new outfall line, unfit for use for more than a year, is now in working order, according to Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph.

Joseph reported to the district board Monday night that the 54-inch line which developed leaks after shifting in the mud flats, is ready for use.

The outfall line was one of the improvements financed by the $1.6 million bond measure passed by district voters in 1970.

Joseph said that after a test of a 48-inch section of the line from the Novato treatment plant to Highway 37, the outfall line is expected to be in operation soon, possibly in early March.

The Novato Sanitary District Also:

INDIAN VALLEY COLLEGES — Expressed intent to annex the Indian Valley Colleges campus, 330 acres at the end of Ignacio Boulevard, to the district.

CHLORINE CONTRACT — Awarded Continental Chemical Co. of Sacramento, lowest of two bidders, a contract to supply chlorine during 1974 at a cost of $136 a ton.

STUDY — Authorized a study by Jenks and Adamson of Palo Alto, estimated to cost $2,500, to analyze the capacity of the treatment plant to handle new developments.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 6 p.m. Jan. 28 at the district office, 500 Davidson Street, Novato.

Recall Charge Can Be Dropped In Six Months

A charge of illegally distributing material in the September Corte Madera recall election will be dismissed in six months if Regina Brown does not repeat the offense.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court ruled yesterday Baty continued the case to July 15.

After the election, which centered on a much debated regional shopping center plan, Mrs. Brown, of 14 Privateer Drive, was charged with a misdemeanor count of passing out flyers which did not identify the distributor or printer.

Signed "Concerned Corte Maderans," the flyers opposed the recall move and pleaded with residents not to "Berkeley-ize Corte Madera."

Strike By Workers Supported By Judge

BOLOGNA, Italy (UPI) — A judge ruled yesterday that workers at a roadside restaurant acted within their rights when they went on strike because they did not like one of the customers, neo-fascist leader Giorgio Almirante.

Judge D. de Nardis dismissed charges against 16 restaurant workers because of the June 18 strike. He said an article of the Fascist era penal code barring political strikes conflicted with the spirit of Italy's postwar constitution.

Solzhenitsyn Said Besieged By Flood Of Angry Phone Calls

MOSCOW (UPI) — Friends said today Soviet author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn has been besieged with angry phone calls in what his wife called "a war of nerves."

The secretary of the official Soviet Writers Union, Sergei V. Mikhalkov, also suggested in a Moscow Radio broadcast yesterday that Solzhenitsyn leave the country. The broadcast was the first time any official representative has made such a suggestion, although there has been speculation among Western diplomats that Solzhenitsyn might be expelled.

The Nobel Prize-winning author has received heavy criticism in the Soviet press since the publication in Paris earlier this month of his new book on Stalinist prison camps, "The Gulag Archipelago."

Literaturnaya Gazeta, weekly newspaper of the Writer's Union, yesterday called Solzhenitsyn "an enemy of the homeland, an enemy of his compatriots, an enemy of all that is dear and sacred to each of us."

Solzhenitsyn's friends said uniformed police and plainclothes KGB secret police were stationed outside the home yesterday. But newsmen who went to the area today saw no sign of any police.

The friends said the author went to a country house yesterday, but returned to the Moscow apartment when he received an anonymous phone call threatening his family.

Solzhenitsyn's wife, Natalya, was quoted as saying the press attacks on him started "what we expect will be a war of nerves—the telephone is busy all day with callers expressing the anger of the people."

One caller said he was an undertaker's representative and asked whether there were any orders from the Solzhenitsyn family, the friends said. The household also received funeral notices clipped from Russian emigre newspapers.

Solzhenitsyn said in an interview last August he believed the KGB was behind previous threats on his life.

Solzhenitsyn went on the attack himself yesterday, denouncing the Writers Union for ousting author Lidia Chukovskaya. He said it was because she had given him a place to live and work.

Woman Named

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Mrs. Bonnie L. Parks, a legislative analyst for the state Chamber of Commerce, was named Monday by Gov. Ronald Reagan to the state Commission on the Status of Women.

Three Slain By Bandits In Mexico

MAZATLAN, Mexico (UPI) — Gunmen shot to death Donald Jennings, sheriff of Everett County, Wash., his wife, and mother-in-law alongside the Mazatlan-Durango highway early Monday, police said.

The District Attorney's office of Concordia, Sinaloa state, said all three persons were shot, two of them in the head. The motive of the triple slaying appeared to be robbery, authorities said.

The bodies of Jennings, 68, his wife, Jean Florence, and Mrs. Jennings' mother, Mrs. Thomas Healy, 76, were found in the camper truck they were driving on an apparent vacation trip.

Investigators said the entire truck had been rifled and pockets, purses and wallets turned inside out.

The camper was discovered about 40 miles from Mazatlan, a Pacific coast port city.

The bodies were taken to Mazatlan where the U.S. Consulate made arrangements for their return to Washington state.

Higher Beef Prices Said On The Way

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers have been warned by food retailers to expect another round of beef price increase in the near future.

At the same time, the retailers said if the government restored price controls it would only make the matter worse.

The price of beef at the farm and wholesale level has risen substantially since Dec. 1 after slumping sharply last fall, the National Association of Food Chains said in a statement to newsmen.

"Retail prices have also moved up, but have not as yet reflected the very sharp wholesale rise experienced in the two-week period of Jan. 1-11. However, because of the extremely tight profit situation at retail, it is to be expected that retail prices will soon advance sharply," the NAFC said.

NAFC traced the recent comeback in cattle and wholesale beef prices partly to bad weather in the Midwest which has held down sales, but mainly to a reduction in the number of cattle placed on feed last summer and fall because of uncertainties caused by price controls and the later plunge in cattle prices.

The supermarket group said that considering the current supply situation, retail beef prices for the next four to six months will have to be substantially above current levels unless consumer demand is cut back. The NAFC added that attempts to hold retail prices down by using ceilings would serve only to prolong the period of short supply which is expected to improve by about mid

Hopeful Chosen For Ford's Seat

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI) — State Sen. Robert VanderLaan yesterday won the Republican nomination to run for Vice President Gerald R. Ford's old seat in Congress with 55 per cent of the vote in a special primary election.

His Democratic opponent, who ran unopposed, pledged to make the Dec. 18 general election "a referendum on Nixon" and "the whole morality Nixon symbolizes."

It was the first Republican primary contest in Michigan's 5th Congressional district since 1948, the year Ford first ran for the office. Ford subsequently spent 25 years in Congress, winning re-election 13 times. No Democrat has been elected in the district since 1910.

Reagan Says He Will Stay Neutral In GOP Primary

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan declared unequivocally yesterday he will remain neutral in the Republican gubernatorial primary and endorse no candidate before the June election.

At his first formal Capitol news conference since Nov. 15, Reagan denied his stand was connected with Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke's statement last week that the governor risks weakening a bid for President unless he abandons his neutrality.

Reagan told reporters he had just concluded a meeting with Reinecke, a Republican gubernatorial candidate, and that the lieutenant governor assured him "he did not intend that to mean that I should in any way be involved in the primary."

The governor earlier had announced he intended to remain neutral in the GOP gubernatorail primary, but kept the door ajar. He shut it yesterday.

In response to questions, the governor, who has said he will not seek a third term but is a frontrunner in opinion polls as a presidential contender, said he had not been asked by Reinecke or any other contender for his endorsement.

On other topics, the governor:

SMOG — The governor defended his controversial appointments of four new members to the state Air Resources Board less than a week before the issue of expanding the smog control device program for used automobiles was to be voted on. He denied he fired any members. The reconstituted board subsequently shelved the program.

FUND — Reagan denied any impropriety in using his state-leased home for a Republican fundraiser Monday night. He told newsmen, "I don't think there is any restriction in the constitution on who I invite into my home." He said he believed previous governors had used the old state-owned governor's mansion for political fund-raising affairs.

OIL — He charged Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democratic gubernatorial contender, displayed "ignorance of our system" when Brown called for a state takeover of its off-shore oil leases and formation of a state-owned oil company to assure adequate fuel for municipal utilities.

Police Grab Three In Getty Kidnap

ROME (UPI) — Italian police announced today they had arrested three southern Italians in the kidnaping of J. Paul Getty III and had recovered an undisclosed amount of money believed to be part of the $2.9 million ransom paid for his release.

A fourth man, the brother of one of the suspects, also was arrested but was not immediately charged in the kidnaping. Police were said to be searching for more suspects, mainly in southern Italy.

Police said the three men were arrested late yesterday and early today by members of the Rome Flying Squad which has handled the investigation.

They were identified as Domenico Barbino, 27, Vincenzo Mammoliti, 32, and Antonio Mancuso, 34. All are from Calabria, the region that forms the toe of the Italian boot.

Barbino, an orderly in a Rome polyclinic, was arrested at his Rome apartment, police said. The other two were captured in small towns in Calabria—Mammoliti in Gioia Tauro and Mancuso in Cicala.

Police also arrested Barbino's 34-year-old brother Sante, who lived nearby in another Rome apartment. He was charged with illegal possession of ammunition—after police found a supply of military ammunition in his apartment—and not in connection with the kidnaping.

Police during the night also arrested two other Calabrians on suspicion of illegal possession of narcotics. They were identified as Giuseppe Lamanna, 25, arrested in Rome, and Antonio Femia, 59, arrested in Alessandria, northern Italy.

One theory held by police investigating the Getty kidnaping was that he might have been abducted by a gang of Calabrian drug runners.

A Tasty Treat For Holiday

In old China, mothers made their children behave by warning them that the Kitchen God was watching them. Every home had a paper image of this god, Wang Tsao, in a niche above the stove. From this vantage point, Wang Tsao observed the family's activities throughout the year. But just before the New Year holidays, Want Tsao visited the Jade Emperor (the highest god) to report on his family.

This year the Kitchen God will visit heaven a few days before Jan. 23 — that's the day the year 4672 (in the Chinese calendar) will begin. While he's away, the family can relax a bit. But he'll be back on New Year's Day.

Want Tsao's renewed vigilance is made up by the beginning of several days of easting and merriment — the New Year celebrations.

Chinese New Year — Jan. 23 — is a fine occasion to serve a family feast featuring Oriental delicacies prepared Western style.

Chinese chicken livers and broccoli with bamboo shoots are likely to be family favorites long after the year 4672. Serve them with hot cooked rice and fortune cookies.

CHINESE CHICKEN LIVERS

2 tablespoons soy sauce
¼ cup (½ stick) butter)
¼ cup cornstarch
2 cups chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped green onion
½ cup sliced water chestnuts
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 fresh tomatoes, cut into wedges
½ cup toasted almonds

Rinse livers in cold water; cut in half. Dip each half in soy sauce. Cook livers in butter in a frying pan set over low heat for five minutes, turning often. Remove livers and keep hot.

Stir cornstarch into drippings; gradually stir in chicken broth. Cook until thickened, stirring frequently. Add salt, green onion, water chestnuts, green pepper, and tomato wedges. Heat until hot. Pour over livers. Garnish with almonds. Serves four to six.

BROCCOLI WITH BAMBOO SHOOTS

¼ cup salad oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 pound fresh broccoli, cleaned and cut in ½-inch thick spears
½ cup Bamboo Shoots
¼ cup chicken broth
2 tablespoons Teriyaki Sauce
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Heat oil in a skillet and stir in garlic. Add broccoli and toss until well coated. Add bamboo shoots, broth, sauce, salt and pepper. Simmer, uncovered, 25 minutes or until tender. Stir occasionally. Serves four.

Extra Protein

Want to give an extra protein push to your breakfasts? Add one-fourth cup of shredded cheddar cheese to each two eggs for scrambled eggs or an omelet.

CHINESE NEW Year, Jan. 23, is a good occasion to serve some Chinese inspired dishes prepared Western style. Chinese chicken livers and Broccoli with Bamboo Shoots are a good way to welcome the year of the tiger.

Danish Delight For Wintry Night

Normally, we think of Danish smorrebrod as a cold food. That's because most Americans visit Denmark during summer.

When the temperature drops, Danish homemakers turn to toasty, warm smorrebrod. They prepare many varieties of broiled smorrebrod for informal luncheons and suppers.

There is one basic rule. Start with buttered, toasted bread — white, French or pumpernickel. Then, build a variety of open-faced sandwiches. (See accompanying photo.)

A wooden board could have these varieties:

Hot sauteed mushroom caps lined up in three rows on the warm, buttered toast. Two thinly sliced green pepper rings are on top with a slice of natural Danish Tybo cheese. Broil until cheese has melted.

Precooked half slices of Danish bacon and thinly sliced tomatoes top the toasted, buttered bread. A slice of Danish Fontina cheese is placed on top for broiling.

Danish Fontina is made of part skimmed milk, but it is a practical cheese to enjoy with fruits or to use in cooking.

Tiny sardines covering the buttered, toasted bread, topped with a triangular slice of Danish Havarti (Tilsit) cheese. Then, broil.

A slice of Danish ham, spread with Dijon mustard atop buttered, toasted pumpernickel bread. Three cling peach quarters top the ham and are most compatible with the mustard flavor.

A slice of Danish Esrom (Port Salut) covers the peaches. This slightly aromatic flavored, creamy cheese melts quickly under the broiler.

In another, the ham with mustard, is topped with a slice of canned pineapple. A slice of Tybo cheese, as used on the mushroom smorrebrod, is broiled on top.

A ham-tomato smorrebrod with the cheese already broiled. A slice of green pepper and a bit of butter lettuce garnish the open-faced hot sandwich.

Tangerines Add Zing To Angel Cake

Tangerines are in the markets, and this fancy dessert cake uses them in its filling and as whole segments in the topping.

TANGERINE ANGEL CAKE
(12 to 16 servings)

5 tangerines, peeled, sectioned, seeded (about 3 cups)
1 10-inch angel food cake
½ cup dry sherry wine
1 cup whipping cream, whipped and sweetened
Powdered sugar (optional)

Grate peel from tangerine to yield one tablespoon peel. Peel tangerines and separate into segments. Cut half the segments into bite-size pieces. Leave remaining segments whole for garnish.

Split angel food cake crosswise into two even layers. Spoon wine over cut surfaces of each layer. Whip cream, sweetening with two tablespoons sugar. Fold in grated tangerine peel. Spread the bottom cake layer with half the whipped cream mixture. Cover with tangerine bite-size pieces. Add top cake layer; spoon on remaining whipped cream and garnish with whole tangerine segments. Dust with powdered sugar, if desired.

Protein Supply

A one-half cup serving of cottage cheese can supply about one-fourth of the protein recommended daily for a teenaged girl. A one-ounce serving of cheddar cheese provides about one-fifth of the calcium recommended for that teenaged girl.

Some Tips On Rib Roast; Best Cooking

The U.S. Department of Agriculture offers these shopping tips on selecting a rib roast.

Always look for the USDA quality grade shield. The grade shield is your reliable guide to meat tenderness, juiciness, and flavor. USDA Prime is the best grade of beef available. USDA Choice is slightly lower in quality than Prime, but is still very tender, juicy and flavorful. USDA Good is not as juicy and flavorful as Prime or Choice but most beef-eaters find it quite acceptable.

Make sure the roast is at least two ribs thick. This is necessary to ensure proper cooking. Allow at least one-half pound per person for normal servings. For larger servings during holiday meals, you may wish to allow a pound per person — especially if the roast is not boneless.

CHOOSE YOUR roast carefully. There are three types of rib roasts you can buy — a boneless rolled ribeye, a five-inch, or a seven-inch cut (a five or seven inch cut contains five or seven inch long rib bones). The boneless ribeye cut is practically waste free, but since there is more waste (bone and fat) in both the five and seven inch cuts, it is difficult to compare prices per pound.

Since the thick ribeye section is the important part of the roast, here is a general guide to follow in deciding which type of rib roast to buy:

First, decide the thickness you prefer for each serving.

Next, determine how thick a roast you will need to serve the number of people you're feeding. (Remember that a roast will shrink slightly during cooking.)

Then select the type of cut — five-inch, seven-inch, or boneless ribeye — that will give you the number of servings you want for the least total cost.

MEANWHILE BACK in the kitchen — roasting calls for a constant low to moderate oven temperature of 325 degrees for beef rib roasts. Don't sear the meat. Use an open roasting pan and don't add water.

To plan your time, allow about 24 minutes per pound for a rare rib roast, 28 for a medium roast, and 33 for a well-done roast. An average roast — a medium seven pound seven-inch cut — would take about 3½ hours to cook, but would not require much tending. Boneless roasts need slightly longer cooking times per pound.

For the degree of doneness you prefer, use a meat thermometer. Insert it into the center of the large ribeye muscle. The internal temperature of a "rare" roast should be 140 degrees; a "medium" roast 160 degrees; and a "well-done" roast 170 degrees.

Los Angeles Physician, His Wife Offer Meatless Dishes

By eliminating meat and the fat on meat you cut both calories and cholesterol, according to Dr. James H. Ryan, who lost 220 pounds 10 years ago and has maintained his weight at 170 pounds.

Dr. Ryan and his wife, Tomi, have written and published a book of 225 recipes, "The Meatless Meal Guide. . . for Budget-minded Health Conscious Cooks."

The physician, who lives in Los Angeles, was in Marin last week. He described the book as "not a traditional vegetarian cookbook emphasizing soy beans and lentils, but one using variety and insight into meatless meals." It does contain fish recipes, however.

The book is color coded by courses, and recipes are set up for easy cooking with the directions adjacent to the ingredient.

SAUCY ZUCCHINI

4 zucchini or summer squash, sliced
3 tablespoons margarine
½ teaspoon salt

Combine these three ingredients in a pan and saute stirring for five minutes.

¼ cup milk
⅓ cup mayonnaise
⅔ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

A favorite of Dr. Ryan's is A'jeh, which the Ryans were given by an Arab family in Bethelehem.

A'JEH

½ green pepper, minced
½ cup chopped parsley
¼ cup chopped mint
3 green onions, chopped
1 clove garlic, mashed
½ lb. zucchini, grated
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
3 eggs, beaten
4 tablespoons flour

Combine all ingredients.

¼ cup vegetable oil

Heat oil in fry pan. Drop other ingredients 1 tablespoon at a time in the pan forming pancakes. Gently brown on both sides. Serve hot. Serves four.

Vanilla Remains Favorite

THE OLD-FASHIONED goodness, the fragrance of pure vanilla, makes this dessert something to look forward to.

Politics makes strange bedfellows, it is said, but in old Salem, some 200 years ago, politics made strange dinner guests as well. Federalists preferred to start their meals with pudding; Democrats wanted their meat before their pudding.

Most modern Americans would side with Democrat Thomas Jefferson — no matter when he ate his pudding — because as one of America's first epicures he brought the first vanilla beans from France where he'd learned to love their exquisite flavor in all manner of desserts.

When he returned to Philadelphia after serving as minister to the court of the French Louis XVI, he brought home two hundred vanilla beans. He entertained so generously that he'd used up his beans within the year and had to beg a friend in France to send more, for wrote he, "It (vanilla) is unknown here."

It didn't take too long before Americans tasted and loved vanilla, first as the cured bean, split and cooked in a pudding mixture or used to make vanilla-scented sugar and later, in the very convenient and fragrant pure vanilla extract.

Vanilla maple bread pudding and upside down cranberry pudding are old-fashioned desserts, delicious enough for any guest, simple enough to make for the family. Be sure to make them with the pure vanilla extract so that your efforts will have the natural vanilla flavor which has been prized for centuries.

VANILLA-MAPLE BREAD PUDDING

- 3½ cups milk
- 3 cups firm textured bread cut into 1/2-inch cubes
- ½ cup maple-blended syrup
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 4 eggs
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons pure vanilla extract

In a medium saucepan scald milk; stir in bread. Add syrup and butter; stir until butter is melted. In a small mixing bowl beat eggs with sugar, salt and vanilla extract. Gradually stir into milk mixture. Turn into a 1½-quart buttered casserole. Set casserole in a larger baking dish. Add hot water to depth of 1 inch. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees) one hour and 20 minutes or until a knife inserted into center comes out clean. Remove from oven. Serve warm or cold with additional maple syrup. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired. Serves eight.

By PAT BALMES

"I drove my parents crazy with my frogs, lizards, snakes and tropical fish when I was growing up in Belvedere. I used to love to be surrounded with tanks of amphibians," said zoologist Dorothy Hinshaw Patent.

Mrs. Gregory Patent, who earned her doctorate at University of California, now lives in Missoula, Mont., where her husband is a professor at the University of Montana's zoology department, and she is writing children's science books.

During a visit to the Belvedere Lagoon home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. Corwin Hinshaw, Mrs. Patent displayed her first published book, "Weasels, Otters, Skunks and Their Family," and reminisced about her childhood natural history hobbies.

The author recalled the tree frogs jumping all over the house and singing whenever the telephone rang.

HER MOTHER reminded her of the night the garter snakes got loose. "Dottie and her father wandered around the house, assuring me they were not tired. They were looking for the snakes but didn't want me to know. They finally found them in the bedsprings."

It helps to have parents who understand, said Mrs. Patent. Her father, author of an internationally read textbook on chest diseases, is a biologist and was pleased with his daughter's interest.

"A lot of parents would not allow that sort of thing. A lot of parents take a different attitude toward their female children. I see women with mental problems because of the way they were trained as children. I am all for letting kids follow whatever interest they have," she said.

The author believes there is great respect for children's intelligence in the field of beginner science books which has dozens of supplementary science books written by Ph. D.s.

"Adults should be aware that they can get basic scientific information in the children's section of the library. In a college class on animal behavior you only learn a little bit about an isolated animal to illustrate a point such as courtship," she said.

She also has written an unpublished picture book for very young children about the life cycle of the tree frog in which the frog talks and goes through the same things children go through because, "If you are determined to go without feelings and conversation, it limits you."

But the author is against anthropomorphism for older children because it is misleading to write stores in which animals act human. She is also against cutesy children's books about animals in which scientific fact is so mixed with fiction that children do not know what to believe.

DECIDING TO give herslf a year to become a published author, Mrs. Patent wrote articles for Ranger Rick Children's Science Magazine about the basket star which was the subject of her thesis and the National Bison Range near her home.

Contacting Holiday House, she learned they were interested in science books on animal families. They invited her to keep sending ideas.

She suggested pandas too late, she said. If an author is going to anticipate a fad, she has to be on her toes, Mrs. Patent remarked.

When the publisher suggested a book about the weasel family "they could have chosen any topic under the sun and I would have said 'yes', " she said.

Her second children's science book on microbiology will be published this spring and she researched a third children's book on amphibians at the University of California library during her recent visit.

MRS. PATENT was 11 when her family moved to Belvedere. She attended Belvedere and Reed Schools and later was valedictorian of her Tamalpais High School graduating class. She attended Stanford University and wrote her University of California doctoral thesis on a marine animal of the deep, the basket star.

While studying at U.C. she met and married the teaching assistant of her endocrinology course. The newlyweds researched their separate theses together at University of Washington's Friday Harbor.

"Neither of us could have done the Ph.D research without the other; two people produced two theses. Greg helped me collect animals when I was too pregnant to go out in a boat. He taught me how to make microscope slides and how to keep animals alive. Our fields are different, but we know enough about each other's work so that we can be helpful," she said.

Dorothy Patent was "very pregnant" in 1968 when she and her husband went together to hand in their theses.

Her husband received a postdoctorate fellowship to do diabetes research at Sinai Hospital in Detroit and Mrs. Patent received a parttime fellowship to help him.

In 1969 they went to Naples, Italy, on a different post-doctorate fellowship to do diabetes-connected research with fish. She helped in the lab and just had a good time, she said.

RETURNING TO the United States, her husband became an assistant professor of zoology at East Carolina University and then a professor at University of Montana.

Mrs. Patent would have liked to teach one course, but she was denied a faculty post. Most

War With China Said No Worry

By BETTY FROST

"When friends find no enemies at the gate, they are more likely to quarrel over common goals," Edward Radenzel of Mill Valley told members of the Sausalito Woman's Club and their guests yesterday.

When President Richard M. Nixon and Dr. Henry Kissinger moved to open relations with China in 1971 and later to improve relations with Russia, "the United States chose to ignore old allies and this created the most serious disarray of the Western alliance in 25 years," Radenzel said.

The speaker, who is the foreign news analyst on KQED Newsroom, a journalist, lecturer and world traveler, spoke on "The United States' 1974 World Position — Where Are We Going?" before an audience of 75 people at the club in Sausalito.

"President Nixon's personal politics brought a new reality in the world today," according to Radenzel. Whatever happens in future relationships between the Chinese government and this country, "it has rid the United States of the dangerous psychosis that China is the enemy.

"AFTER 12 years of fighting to a stalemate in Vietnam, we have learned that war with China, with her millions, could have engaged our forces for decades. For the next 10 years we need give little thought to war with China," the newsman said.

"The Chinese and the Russians get along less well with one another than they do with us," he said, "and each power knows that a conflict between them would be devastating and work to the advantage of the United States.

The rapprochement with traditional Communist adversaries left this nation's traditional friends in Western Europe plus the Japanese and the Canadians shaken, he said. Dr. Kissinger's original plan that 1973 would be "The Year of Europe" was not welcomed by Europeans who saw in the proposed Nixon visit a diplomatic victory for the President, but no help for Europe.

This country's domestic troubles, including Watergate, are hard for Europeans to understand and have cost some prestige in international relationships, Radenzel said.

AMERICAN OIL production peaked in 1970, and production is now going down. In 1968 there were more than one million wells in the United States yielding 12 barrels of oil per day. In Arabian oil fields in 1968 there were only 650 wells, but each well was producing 5,500 barrels each day," said Radenzel.

The news analyst foresees the possibility that the Arab embargo on oil might be only the beginning. He noted that the United States produces only 13 per cent of the country's needs for aluminum. Should Jamaica and Surinam, the largest suppliers of aluminum, try an Arab-style embargo, it could be critical for our economy, he said.

ON THE AGENDA

Afternoon Of Art And Music Planned By Improvement Club

An afternoon of art, music and table settings will be presented tomorrow by the American Home Section of the San Rafael Improvement Club at 3:30 p.m. at the clubhouse in San Rafael.

Artist members of the club will display their work in the "Viennese Interlude" theme setting. Painting will be shown by members Mmes. H. R. Melone, John Verzi, Walter Abraham, Victor Earll, Art Aviron, C. W. Zumwalt and Richard Hardin.

Doing table settings will be Mmes. Wallis R. Riese, Norris W. Rawles, Fred W. Meyer, Ragnar Thaning, Charles Tacchi, H. R. Arthur, L. L. Walsh, Hardin, Kenneth Walkmeister and George Melanson, Aviron, Lewis A. Clapp, Claude Besselieu, Paul Hammer, Walter Smith and James Whitney.

Mmes. Earl Burns and Aviron will prepare theme tables.

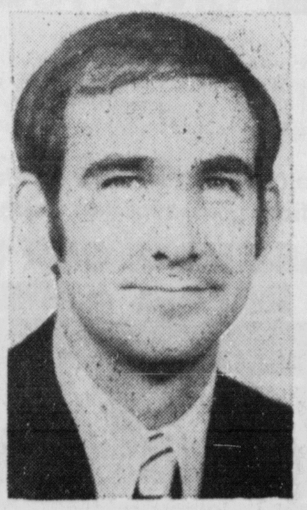

Mrs. Cletus J. Fitzharris is chairman, assisted by Mmes. Walsh and Aviron. Others participating will be Mmes. Harold Hacke, Ralph Holchester, Katherine Babinsky, Harry B. Patton, and pouring tea will be Mmes. Carlos R. Freitas, William P. Murray, Tacchi and Peter Andersen. Mrs. Victor Earll of Greenbrae is reservations chairman.

PIANIST MICHAEL Moore will be featured at the concert of the Thursday Musical Club at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Harrison Leppo in Mill Valley.

A San Rafael resident, Moore is instructor of piano at Lone Mountain College in San Francisco and received bachelor and master's degrees from the San Francisco Conservatory of Music. He also studied at Brigham Young University and Chico State College.

Tea will follow the program, with Mmes. John Steelem, Edward Murray, John Lesoine, Hugh Middleton and Andrew Dewing pouring.

A REVIEW of Elie Wiesel's novel, "The Oath," will be given by Rabbi David Davis for the Sisterhood of Temple Rodef Sholom at noon tomorrow at the temple in San Rafael.

MICHAEL MOORE
Guest soloist

A luncheon will be given prior to the review.

CHARLENE CLOUD, a registered inhalation therapist, will discuss new techniques in inhalation therapy for care of patients at the meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. of the Marin Division 17, California Licensed Vocational Nurses Association.

Nursing personnel and others interested in patient care may attend the meeting at the Marin General Hospital Blue Room, according to Victorene Fry of San Rafael, press chairman.

Miss Cloud is in charge of inhalation therapy at Marin General Hospital.

PESTICIDES AND Our Environment" is the topic to be presented by Gary Knapp to the Couples Section of Novato Branch of American Association of University Women at 8 p.m., Friday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Palmer in Novato.

Knapp is a research engineer with Ortho Division, Chevron Chemical Co.

Marjorie Mowat and Lorraine Wutzke will be in charge of refreshments.

Women Told Credit Discrimination Easing

By KAREN PETERSON

Any questions of discrimination against women trying to buy a home, establish credit or seek retribution from possible consumer fraud can be answered only when women discover what their rights are as consumers, concluded a three-woman panel last night at the Marin Young Women's Christian Association.

Karen Bell, a business woman; Dorothy Oczkus, a realtor, and Bette Wallace, head of the consumer hotline for the county, spoke at the second "Knowledge Is Power" series at the YWCA, "Women and Money."

Women are now being considered for home loans "strictly on the basis of income and credit status," said Miss Oczkus of policies at the Bank of America and Great Western Bank in Novato.

Single women, she added, seldom meet with discrimination and divorced women seeking home loans now can claim child support and alimony payments as part of their income.

Formerly, she said, divorced women were "stymied because they couldn't qualify for a loan no matter how much they received in alimony and child care."

BUT BEFORE any loan is approved, women as well as men, must have established credit.

"Credit granters still discriminate against women," said Miss Bell, "not necessarily against single women, but women who are married, divorced or widowed have extreme problems."

Miss Bell urged that married women begin immediately to establish credit in their own names rather than in their husbands.

If a woman becomes divorced and applies for a mortgage loan, she will find it difficult because she has no credit at all in her name, said Miss Bell.

To establish credit, she suggested starting with a retail store rather than an oil company. "Credit is granted on the ability to pay," she said, any retail credit card is a "foot into the arena."

CREDIT IN California is tightening up, she warned, and as of June payments that are received five days after the due date will be counted as a 30-day delinquent payment.

Consumers under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, she said, have the right to see their credit reports at any time.

Miss Bell urged consumers to take advantage of this right to question anything on their credit reports, and to demand a reason for rejection of a credit application.

Mrs. Wallace, consumer affairs deputy of the Marin County Human Relations Department, said that of the 700 calls received since June, the top three complaints have been in automotive repair, mobile home, and tenant-landlord areas.

Mrs. Wallace urged consumers read any leases and agreements carefully, and save all warrantees.

As for specific laws, she said repair shops must give a signed estimate on auto work and get authorization before doing any unspecified repairs. She also added that the state will send out inspectors with a test automobile to see if complaints are justified.

For renters, cleaning deposits are a "terrible problem". Renters can protect themselves, she said, by reading the agreement carefully and making a witnessed note of any damages to the house and sending a copy to the landlord.

She also said there were three agreements between tenants and landlords: the oral agreement, rental agreement and the lease, which provides the tenant the most protection.

If the landlord wants the renter to move, added Miss Oczkus, he must give a 30-day written notice at least one day before the rent is due.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Divorced Mother, 45, Would Like To Get A College Degree

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 45, and have a great yearning to get my college degree. Two problems: not much time, and fear of competition with bushy-tailed young people.

I don't want night classes, and I have only one free day a week. Am I foolish to dream? — DIVORCEE, WORKER, MOTHER

DEAR DWM:

Several colleges across the country have programs tailor-made for people like you. One of them is just a few miles away, at Queens College, New York.

The Queens program is called ACE, Adult Collegiate Education, and it accepts only persons over 30.

Classes can be arranged so they don't conflict with jobs, and best of all —a participant may earn credits toward a degree for "life experience." Thus any significant achievement in community life, business, professional or social activities will bring you closer to your goal.

"We look for activities that are translatable into academic currency," says Dean Ernest Schwarcz, director of ACE. If a student has been a labor union leader —or a Girl Scout leader —it could be worth anywhere from six to 36 credits.

Current ACE enrollment at Queens College is about 1,600 students, 60 per cent women, 40 per cent men. They attend day and night classes in small graduate-style seminars with students their own ages, who can progress at their own paces — and often this is faster than that of less motivated young people.

And yes, DWM, you may attend only one day a week, probably still graduate within three or four years; less if you have previously earned college credits or can qualify for Life Experience units. — H.

NOTE TO READERS: While the Queens program is only open to New York City residents over 30, other colleges and universities offer similar adult education work. If you're interested, inquire at your local college.

DEAR HELEN:

After reading in your parent survey that many women are outfitting their teen-age daughters with contraceptives, I must ask:

Is there documented proof (which people seem to abide by) that young folks given the spoken or silent "Go ahead, but be careful and in love" where premarital sex is concerned, are happier, less guilt-ridden, freer from drugs and delinquency and more fulfilled? Are these children reared by "enlightened parents" more optimistic about their future, and do they have any sort of pattern for facing problems and decisions ahead?

Perhaps youth of today are wiser than I was, but at 16, I had no idea of the dangers and consequences of limitless freedom. My parents set the guidelines by Bible standards (which I didn't always like). They were wrong on occasion and so was I, but I was grateful for limits and for their love.

I grieve for the young daughters whose mothers choose to provide them with birth control devices rather than responsible ideals and courage. — MRS. Z.G.

DEAR MRS. G.:

Sometimes a parent who has tried to instill ideals, courage, and the wisdom of waiting, still finds herself faced with a daughter's determination to embark on a love affair.

Don't condemn as unconcerned cop-outs all mothers who provide contraceptives for their teen-age daughters. Some of them realize there is no other safe choice. — H.

Mrs. Hill Is Head Of Fairhills Guild

The Fairhills Guild of the Boyd Museum will be led this year by Jeanette Hill of San Rafael, a three-year member of the fund-raising organization.

Mrs. Hill, the wife of A. Alan Hill, deputy secretary of the Agriculture and Services Agency for the State of California, has also served as treasurer of the organization that "actively raises funds and renders any services needed" for the museum.

Plans for the year include the annual Marin Ski Swap with the Ross and Greenbrae guilds, an invitational dinner dance, and the Festival of Trees, the annual all-guild fund raiser.

Mrs. Hill is also active in the docent program at the museum which involves tours and in-school environmental programs using museum animals; Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary, Coleman School Parent-Teacher Association, St. Paul's Episcopal church choir and as a substitute teacher.

A native of Glendale, Mrs. Hill was graduated from the College of the Pacific in Stockton where she received her degree in education,

She has lived in Marin for 11 years and is the mother of Andrew, 11; Timothy, 9, and Michael, 7. Her interests include piano, needlework, bicycling, bridge and wilderness backpacking.

JEANETTE HILL
Boyd guild leader

Women Voters Set For Annual Legislative Strategy Session

Members of the League of Women Voters of Central and Southern Marin will have the opportunity to question Sen. Peter H. Behr (R-Marin) and other legislators and lobbyists Friday at the third annual Legislative Strategy Conference at His Lordship's Restaurant in Berkeley.

Purpose of the day long conference is to develop more effective lobbying techniques and to determine what the prospects for successful legislative action are in the various areas of league interest, according to Jean Lovejoy, president of the Central Marin League.

The panel of legislators who will address the morning session are Senator Behr on environmental legislation, Sen. Arlen Gregorio (D-San Mateo) on campaign finance legislation and Assemblyman Frank Holman (D-Los Angeles) on housing and community development.

New Aquarium In The Round

No longer are you restricted to the rectangular metal frame tank with appliances hanging over the edge. The Vaungarde aquarium is a visual display with a unique optical effect of the circular enclosure.

It stands 52 inches high and holds approximately 20 gallons of water. The aquarium has a central service channel that allows the internal entrance into the aquarium water of the air supply. This feature eliminates exterior hardware.

Sen. Mervyn Dymally (D-Los Angeles) will be the luncheon speaker. His topic will be Women's Rights Legislation.

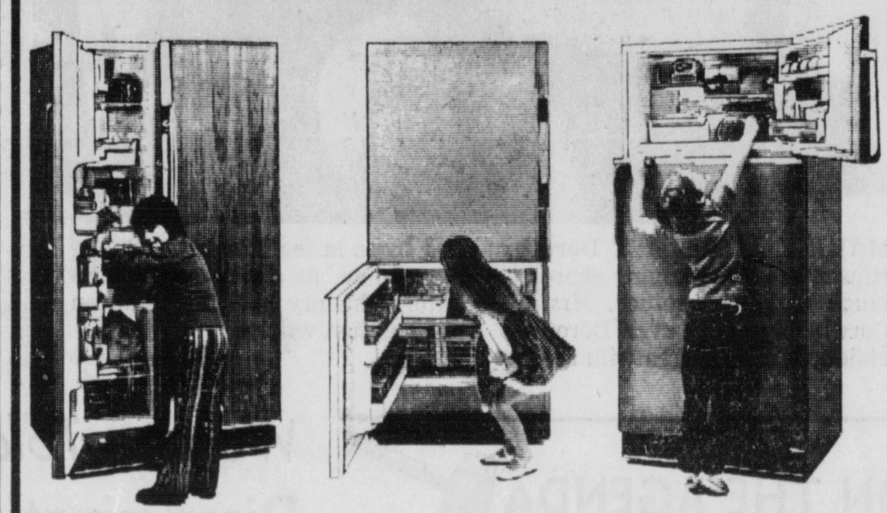

The afternoon panel of lobbyists will include Joe Gunterman of the Friends Committee on Legislation, Frank Mesple, lobbyist for the County of Sacramento, and Mary Bergan, California Federation of Teachers lobbyist.

Members from 35 local leagues in Northern California will attend the conference.

Mrs. Lovejoy said as a result of the conference league members expect to develop strategy and set priorities for the current legislative session in a realistic way. The league's state program includes legislative goals in education, environmental quality, taxation, voting rights, justice, housing and constitutional revision.

Where do you want the freezer in your new Amana refrigerator...

on the side? on the bottom? on the top?

Amana gives you a choice

If you want your zero degree freezer on the side, there's the Amana Side-by-Side. Or you can have it on the top or the bottom. They're all Free-O-Frost in both the refrigerator and freezer.

And every Amana has two independent temperature controls, one for the freezer, one for the refrigerator. There's a "refrigerator-within-a-refrigerator" that keeps meat fresh up to twice as long as an ordinary meat keeper. And a high-humidity compartment that keeps vegetables fresh up to three weeks.

Come and look at the choices Amana has for you. Then choose the one you want from gold, avocado, coppertone or white.

Lillian VonBima Is Noble Grand

Lillian VonBima of San Anselmo, a retired bookkeeper, was installed noble grand of Tamal Rebekah Lodge 393, Monday in a joint installation with Marin Lodge 200, International Order of Odd Fellows.

A member since 1936 who has held all offices including noble grand in 1939, Mrs. VonBima said the lodge along with the Odd Fellows, supports a blood and eye bank and a children's home. With the five other lodges in Marin, Mrs. VonBima said the lodge will hold a Heart Fund breakfast Feb. 24 and serve dinner in March for the area Blood Bank. A spring luncheon and bazaar will be held in April.

Mrs. VonBima, the wife of Frank VonBima, is also a member of San Rafael Chapter 215, Order of Eastern Star. She is a native of San Francisco and attended school in Beaumont, Tex. She has lived in Marin since 1936.

FOUR HANDS HELP CHARITY

Sonoma State University music instructors Dale Cutler (left) and Larry Snyder warm up for the concert of piano music for four hands they will present at 8 p.m. Jan. 26 in the San Rafael High School auditorium. Also appearing in the muscular dystrophy fund benefit will be Sonoma State dance instructor Nancy Lyons and her students.

Russian Will Conduct For Philharmonic

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gennady Rozhdestvensky, the only Soviet conductor to be allowed to take an appointment as music director of a Western orchestra, will lead the Los Angeles Philharmonic in three subscription concerts.

Rozdhdestvensky, 42, making his debut with the orchestra here at the Music Center, will arrive from Moscow next Tuesday. He replaces the scheduled conductor, Josef Krips, who is ill in Switzerland.

Rozdhdestvensky has revised the orchestra's program to include a major Russian work, Symphony No. 8 by Shostakovich.

The first concert is scheduled for Jan. 27.

Ernest Fleischmann, executive director of the Los Angeles Philharmonic and Hollywood Bowl, said Rozhdestvensky is "one of the great conductors of our time.

"He has this special kind of magic," said Fleischmann. "He has a gift for getting in tremendously close contact with his musicians and somehow inspiring them. I don't know of any orchestra that hasn't loved him."

Rozhdestvensky was the first Russian conductor to hold a post outside of Russia. He is currently music director of the Moscow Radio Symphony and formerly directed the Bolshoi Opera.

Janet Baker, a renowned British mezzo-soprano, is the soloist at the concerts. She will sing two arias from Mozart's "La Clemenza di Tito."

RAGA CONCERT — Master flutist G. S. Sachdev will perform classical Indian ragas at a benefit scholarship concert for the Marin Children School in Mill Valley Feb. 2 at 8 p.m. at Fireman's Fund Forum, 3333 California Street, San Francisco.

Cancer Society Program Set

The Marin Unit of the American Cancer Society will hold an informational meeting for prospective volunteers and other interested persons at 11 a.m. Jan. 23 at the Tamalpais Retirement Residence, Greenbrae.

Activities and goals of the Marin organization will be explained at the session.

Five Million Brochures Distributed On Disease

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's "Strike Day" against its four most chronic but preventable diseases mobilized the efforts of 40,000 volunteers who passed out 5 million brochures, state health and welfare secretary Earl Brian said yesterday.

"The best weapon against these diseases, which thrive on fear and ignorance, is an informed public," Brian said in outlining the success of the Dec. 8 program.

"The immediate goal of public awareness has been achieved," he added.

Brian said the volunteer drive was initiated because alcoholism, venereal disease, drug abuse and dental disease "have reached epidemic proportions in California.

"The primary reason for the accelerating spread of these medical-social conditions is that facts concerning their nature, treatment and prevention are shrouded in myth or half-truth or barred from conversation by the power of social taboos," he said.

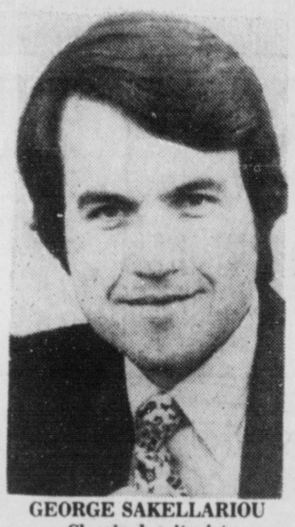

Volunteers for Strike Day, Brian said, represented service organizations including PTAs, Boy Scouts, Kiwanis and Jaycees in addition to state and local health officials.

Brian said these groups were coordinated in a single information drive and avoided much of the duplication that occurs when several organizations work independently on a campaign.

After Strike Day, callers using toll-free numbers were given information concerning treatment and prevention facilities in their local communities, Brian said.

Exposure to Strike Day resulted in "many telephone calls" from persons throughout the state.

Sakellariou Will Play In Concert

GEORGE SAKELLARIOU
Classical guitarist

Classical guitarist George Sakellariou will be the guest performer at the second concert of the Marin Symphony season Jan. 22 at 8 p.m. at the Marin Veterans' Memorial Building.

Sakellariou, a resident of Marin, is a former student of Andres Segovia and a graduate of the Hellenikon Conservatory in Athens, Greece.

He is currently on the faculty of both the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and Dominican College in San Rafael.

For the Marin Symphony, Sakellariou will play the "Concierto de Aranjuez" by Rodrigo. The orchestra will also play "Le Tombeau de Couperin" by Ravel and Symphony No. 1 in C Minor by Brahms.

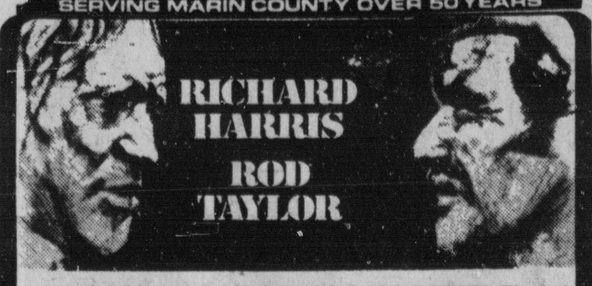

Reappointment

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Former Republican Assemblyman Hale Ashcraft of San Francisco was reappointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan Monday to a $37,615-a-year post as a member of the state Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

To Visit Cuba

MOSCOW (UPI) — Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev will make his first visit to Cuba late this month, probably beginning about Jan. 24, diplomats said yesterday.

BY GEORGE! — Few people showed up yesterday at a rally in Raleigh, N.C. to support President Nixon, but someone added to the event by decorating a statue of George Washington with a mask of the President. Police removed the papier-mache mask after it had been up only 20 minutes.

Coast Controls Hearing Draws 40 Persons At Corte Madera

The first public hearing on proposals for tight controls on use of the ocean coastline last night attracted about 40 persons to the two-hour session at Granada School in Corte Madera.

Michael L. Fischer, executive director of the North Central Coast Regional Commission, said the audience included commercial and sport fishermen, property owners and interested citizens. He said the discussion produced "real good vibes," with the audience especially praising the opportunity for public involvement in the commission's planning for the coast.

The proposals by the staffs of the state and regional coastal commissions call for prohibiting diking and filling in all estuaries and wetlands, removal of sewage discharges from lagoons and estuaries, and protection of "valued" rather than just "endangered" marine species.

Other hearings will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hall of Flowers, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, and 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday in Santa Rosa at Herbert Salter Junior High School.

The commission will discuss the controls, the first part of a master plan due by 1976, at 7 p.m. on Feb. 7 in the Marin Civic Center. Adoption is set for Feb. 21.

Subsequent reports will come in the next few months on geology, oil drilling, supertanker terminals, power plant siting, recreation and other subjects.

New Alarm Box

NEW YORK (UPI) — The city of New York has begun installing a new form of emergency alarm box on its streets, giving persons who make an alarm call two-way voice contact with the fire or police department.

Vote Delayed On Terminal In Larkspur

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Voting on a permit for the Larkspur ferry terminal has been postponed from tomorrow to Feb. 7 by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

The commission's staff delayed the vote upon finding that changes in the plans for the terminal had not been approved yet by directors of the Golden Gate Bridge District. The bridge board is scheduled to approve the changes on Jan. 25.

The Feb. 7 meeting of the commission will be at 2 p.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue.

The changes by the district's staff increased dredging by 70,000 cubic yards so the terminal can be supported on rock fill instead of steel piles, deleted "for the present" several commercial structures, eliminated some public access platforms over the bay, and added 500 parking spaces, bringing the total to 1,100.

The $10.3 million terminal, originally scheduled to open this June, now is expected to be completed by July, 1975.

State Fruit And Nut Crop Grows

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's nut and fruit crop in 1973 grew to a record value of $1.57 billion, a 54 per cent increase over 1972, according to state agriculture statistics.

Total production also was a record high at 8.9 million tons, a 32 per cent jump over the previous year, the California Crop and livestock Reporting Service said yesterday.

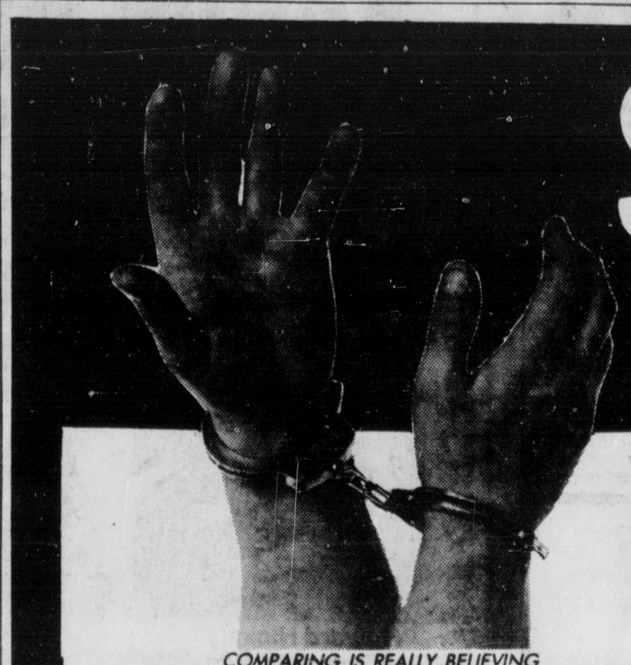

Total bearing acreage for the 1973 season was 1.43 million, a 3 per cent boost over 1972.

Record crop value was reached for apples, plums, prunes, almonds, walnuts, grapes, avocados, lemons and tangerines, the crop service said.

NOVATO BARN FIRE

Novato fireman direct a stream of water on leaping flames that erupted in a 75-year-old barn on the Wilson property on Lamont Avenue yesterday and gutted the structure. Novato Fire Chief Frank Kidder, who called the aging structure often used by transients a "total loss," theorized that the 11:10 a.m. blaze was caused by careless children, who use the barn and nearby abandoned autos as a play area. Campsite Plan Needs No Report

A Kampgrounds of America facility planned for Petaluma will not require an environmental impact report because it will have only a mimimal impact, the city planning commission decided last night.

A planning spokesman said the facility is planned for 60 acres at the northwest corner of Rainsville and Stony Point roads in northwestern Petaluma.

Organizers of the project plan to locate the actual campground on about six acres of the land, leaving the balance in its present pastoral state.

Applicants for the campground are William and Judith Wood of Corte Madera.

As proposed, the facility would contain 81 campsites, most of which would be trailer spaces.

Plan Review

Larkspur city councilmen will review the city's masterplan requirements for planned development districts when they meet at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

AT SEWER PLANT

Plan Wins Approval For 'Phew' Removal

A Mendocino County man who hopes to use gaseous by-products of sewage treatment to make plants grow faster won approval last night from the Richardson Bay Sanitary District board to try his idea in the district for one-year.

Board secretary Eber D. Russell said R. Edward Burton of Willits will park a truck-van with 5,000 seedlings near the district sewage treatment plant and pump carbon dioxide gas produced in waste processing into the van to nurture the plants.

The plants will turn the gas and other ingredients into carbohydrates during the photosynthesis process, according to Russell, and will give off oxygen which could be pumped back to the plant.

Russell said the district hopes to eliminate many of its odor problems with the plan.

Burton will pay all expenses except for the power needed to run his air pumps and heat the trailer. That will cost the district $30 a month.

Burton's operation will begin as soon as he gets approval from the City of Tiburon to park the van on district grounds. Russell said Burton already has similar operations in Ukiah.

Also last night, the district board approved annexation to the district of an area behind Belveron Gardens, including 69 acres in the Reedlands Unit No. 5 and 20 acres belonging to the Tamalpais Union High School District.

Collegians To Give Marin Performance

The King's Players, a dramatic group from California Lutheran College, will perform at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Christ the Victor Lutheran Church, 2626 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, according to Rev. Lyle Miller.

New Show At Center Library

A Russian cultural exhibit, including paintings, photographs, films and costumes, will be displayed through Jan. 31 at the Civic Center branch of the Marin County Library.

The display includes 41 paintings by five Bay Area artists of Russian heritage and an assortment of other objects such as musical instruments, toys, dolls and household wares from Russia.

Library hours are Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

$8,000 Damage In Apartment Blaze

A fire caused by a malfunctioning television set did $8,000 damage to an apartment in the Shelter Bay project in Mill Valley yesterday.

Mill Valley firemen said that neighbors first noticed the fire in the Helen Williams residence in apartment 225, Building 4 at about 1:30 p.m. when flames began shooting out a window. Curtains, walls, ceilings and furniture were burned, and the entire apartment suffered smoke damage. Miss Williams was not home at the time.

Veterans Memorial Roof Plaster Falls

Foreaker said the crumbling ceiling is apparently the result of improper construction, although his investigation is not yet complete.

He said the lightweight plaster fell sometime Sunday while the building was unoccupied. The space beneath the faulty area has been roped off.

Foreaker, who could give no dollar estimate of the damage, said the original construction of the problem-plagued building carried a one-year warranty, but that has expired.

The ceiling consists of three coats of plaster — two hand-applied coats and one sprayed-on coat of lightweight accoustical plaster. It was the last coat that gave way Sunday.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

CELEBRATION — Agreed to spend up to $850 to pay for rental of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building to the San Rafael Centennial Celebration Committee. The group plans to stage a centennial ball May 25 at the auditorium.

YOUTH — Enlarged the county youth commission to 13 members and named human rights commissioner Leland S. Bright to serve on the group. It is made up of 10 youths and three adults.

PERSONNEL — Reappointed Parnell Finn and John Ralph Thomas to four-year terms on the county personnel commission.

HAMILTON — Concurred with the City of Novato's decision to delay signing a contract with Perplana Associates for planning future use of surplus lands at Hamilton Air Force Base. The order declaring the lands surplus has been delayed in Congress.

CORRECTIONS — Rejected a proposal from County Administration John F. Barrows that he be named "project director" of the new corrections program at the minimum security honor farm. Supervisors said they wanted someone else selected and postponed the matter to Jan. 22.

PARKS — Postponed to Feb. 19 a request from parks director Pierre W. Joske that an assistant be hired to work with various county service areas. The matter was delayed until the service areas, which provide street lighting, landscape maintenance, open space and parks, are informed of the proposal and its cost.

CATHOLIC — Appropriated $5,000 for continued operation of the house at San Quentin prison. Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere voted against the request, saying it was not a county responsibility. The house is operated by the Catholic Social Service of Marin to provide quarters for families visiting San Quentin inmates.

CONTRACT — Agreed to amend the county's contract with two ambulance companies and provide an additional $1,000 for emergency care training of ambulance drivers. Classes will be offered at the College of Marin.

WORKSHOP — Postponed for two weeks action on a request from the Marin Community Workshop for handicapped persons that the county allocate $36,000 to offset its financial problems. Supervisors directed Barrows to study the workshop's budget and recommend an amount to see it through the fiscal year. It received $23,400 in June.

RAILROAD — Authorized $15,000 for appraisals of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way on the west side of Highway 101 between Corte Madera and Sausalito. The funds were requested by the county transit district, which is interested in acquiring the old right-of-way.

GROWTH — Held the first of several discussions on the proposed growth control ordinance aimed at limiting the number of residential dwellings built in the next 20 years. The board was told meetings will continue between the planning department and staff and representatives of the building industry.

ORDINANCES — Received a report from Harvey E. Bragdon, county chief of current planning, that a new state law requires two readings of new ordinances before adoption. Two readings has been the practice in California cities for years.

POINT REYES — Urged Congress to add about 105 acres atop the Inverness Ridge to the Point Reyes National Seashore. The lands, owned primarily by David Adams of San Anselmo, overlook the park and some fear their development would mar the park's tranquil setting.

COAST PLAN — Endorsed the proposed planning area of the North Central Coast Regional Commission. The area boundaries extend inland up to four miles from the coast and set the area for future coast planning.

SONOMA — Agreed with concerns of the county agricultural advisory committee that the proposed Bloomfield ranch subdivision in Sonoma County near the Marin County line might have an adverse impact on Marin's agricultural industry by encouraging rural development.

MEETING — Tentatively set Monday at 8 p.m. for a joint meeting with the Novato City Council to discuss growth control measures.

Retiring Officers To Be Feted

Three retiring sheriff's officers will be honored and new officers of the Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association installed at a dinner Feb. 1 at the Alvarado Inn, Ignacio.

To be feted are Sgts. Robert W. Scheiner and Edward A. McKamey and Lt. Newall Snyder. The three have a combined total of 49 years with the department.

Judge Gary W. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court will install the association's 1974 officers, including Robert Bertrand, president; James Hickey, first vice president; Anthony Russo, second vice president, and Marcha Machado, secretary-treasurer.

The dinner, set for 7:30 p.m. is open to the public.

Youth Snatches Woman's Purse

A 49-year-old Corte Madera woman was knocked to the ground last night by a black youth who stole her purse, police reported today.

Ellen L. Gessleman, 41 Seawolf Passage, told police she was walking near her home about 5:55 p.m. when the youth attacked her. She estimated the value of the contents of her purse at $60.

The youth was described as 5 feet, 7 inches tall, about 135 pounds, with black hair.

That's what our Evergreen checking is all about.

If you qualify, which is virtually always the case, we'll enroll you in our bounce-proof checking system that automatically covers checks written beyond your balance to an amount you prearrange—$500, $1,000 . . . even more.

We're not encouraging you to write a bad check. Rather we're encouraging you to take advantage of that special once-in-a-lifetime sale, or an emergency that takes cash and only cash, or any number of other situations where you can actually save money over the long run by spending it now.

Evergreen checking costs very little. Approximately 5¢ a day per $100, (annual percentage rate 18%), a small price for such a convenience. And it never costs a cent until you use it.

Speaking of money, when you come with us, it's not all just writing checks. Evergreen means a free checking account—saving you up to $4 a month. And we offer higher interest rates on savings accounts.

5%	5½%*	6%*	6½%*
Passbook Savings	$500 Minimum 90 days or more	$500 Minimum 1 yr. or more	$500 Minimum 2-1/2 yrs. or more

And even without Evergreen, our checking accounts are free with $100 minimum (most other banks require $200 to $300 minimum).

And free notary services.

And all the other banking services and facilities you need (and sometimes can't get from other banks). We have Saturday banking at our centrally located Corte Madera Branch.

Come in and spend a few minutes with us. That $1,000 may not be that far away.

Novato Delays Action On Overnight Parking Policy

The Novato City Council last night postponed action on a controversial ordinance to restrict overnight parking by "oversized" vehicles on residential streets. (Another Novato council story, page 1.)

The proposal, which has drawn protests from owners of recreational vehicles and campers, would ban parking by "oversized" vehicles for longer than 30 minutes between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m.

Opponents have challenged the need for such a regulation and have argued that the proposed dimensions (labeling vehicles more than 20 feet long and 84 inches wide, as oversized) are too restrictive.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg, owner of a recreational vehicle, said "I've heard no public outcry for it (the ordinance)."

Ruegg said no one had supported the regulation at a hearing last week, but "here we sit in our arrogance and pomposity to deny further rights to citizens."

Councilman George C. Quesada bristled and charged that Ruegg was "on a soapbox". "I don't want to hear you speaking another half-hour," he said.

Ruegg continued to speak and Quesada closed his binder and said, "I'm going home." About a dozen opponents of the proposed ordinance cheered, but Quesada stayed.

Councilmen agreed to refer the proposed ordinance to City Atty. Clark M. Palmer for possible revision and reintroduce it on Jan. 29.

The Novato City Council also:

MOUNT BURDELL — Adopted an ordinance prezoning almost 8,000 acres on Mount Burdell and surrounding area, mainly to 60-acre lots. The vote was 3-to-2 with Ruegg and Councilman Dorothy P. Young dissenting.

COMMISSIONS — Adopted an ordinance changing the appointment date for planning commissioners from Jan. 1 to July 1 so council members taking office in March could make the selections. The regulation also will make planning and parks and recreation commissioners subject to removal without cause by a 4-to-1 vote of the council. The vote was 3-to-2 with F. Wayne Sartain and Quesada dissenting.

O'HAIR PARK — Authorized payment of $35,000 toward purchase of the O'Hair property at Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue with Ruegg dissenting. City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported a survey, costing from $150 to $200, will be undertaken to determine if Indian artifacts exist in the area planned for a baseball diamond.

LOMA VERDE — Adopted annexation of land within the city to the Loma Verde County Service area so residents in the area can purchase open space.

WILDLIFE SANCTUARY — Contributed $1,000 to the Ignacio Wildlife Sanctuary, subject to the city attorney's approval. Ruegg dissented, saying it was not a city obligation since the sanctuary is outside the city.

VEHICLES — Agreed to purchase six police vehicles, including two sub-compact sedans, and a pickup truck through the state procurement office for a total cost of $28,263.

GENERAL PLAN — Adopted an ordinance establishing residential zoning on land in the Reservoir Hill area and multiple-family and duplex zoning in the Park Avenue-Elm Drive area to bring the properties into conformance with the Novato General Plan. Ruegg dissented.

FUND TRANSFER — Transferred $500 from unallocated reserves to the parks and recreation maintenance account to cover costs on vandalism at city parks.

SPEED LIMITS — Introduced an ordinance to set the speed limit at 25 miles an hour along Diablo Avenue from Hill Road to Redwood Highway and along Fairway Drive from Ignacio Boulevard to the west end of the drive.

CENTER ROAD — Set a public on property owners assessments in connection with the Center Road improvement project for 8 p.m. Feb. 12.

CODES — Introduced building and plumbing ordinances, necessary to adopt the 1973 Uniform Building Code, and set Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. today at the Novato Community House for a public hearing on ways to put the city's growth limit policy, 500 dwelling units a year, into effect.

Foster Slayers' Apartment Found

OAKLAND (UPI) — Police have discovered an apartment which they believe was used as a hideout by the assassins of City Schools Superintendent Marcus A. Foster, it was disclosed yesterday.

Detectives said the apartment was just 5 ½ blocks away from the parking lot where Foster and a top aide, Robert Blackburn, were attacked on Nov. 6. Blackburn was wounded and recovered.

The apartment was rented Sept. 11 by a young woman. Police said the killers might have stayed there for three weeks after the killing.

Scott To Direct Miller Production

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Actor George C. Scott, winner of the Oscar and Emmy awards, has been signed to direct the Philadelphia Drama Guild's production of "Death of a Salesman." The production of the Arthur Miller play will star Martin Balsam and Theresa Wright and will open Feb. 26.

Scott won an Oscar in 1970 for his portrayal of Gen. George Patton in the movie "Patton," but refused to accept the award. He won an Emmy for his direction of the televised Civil War play, "The Andersonville Trial."

Service To Minors Is Extended

Beginning this week, the Rites of Passage in San Rafael is expanding its "sex information service for minors" to each weekday afternoon from 3 to 6 p.m.

For the past four months, the service has been offered one day a week to determine if there was interest in such information.

Almost 400 calls from young people, not only in Marin but from other parts of the Bay Area, have been received, according to a spokesman for the organization, which is the youth branch of Marin Open House.

Questioners wanted to know sexual definitions, answers to questions about physiology and information about birth, pregnancy and venereal disease, according to the spokesman.

Trained adults provide answers to the youthful questions.

Needs The Money?

NEW YORK (UPI) — David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, got a bit richer. He won $75 last week in a lottery run by a club made up of the bank's officers.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Amniocentesis Wise Step If Genetic Defect Is Possible

In amniocentesis, a small amount of amniotic fluid is removed from the uterus as early as the 13th week of pregnancy. The procedure is recommended when there is reason to believe that the baby will be born with a chromosomal abnormality or genetic defect, such as Down's syndrome (mongolism) or Tay-Sachs disease. The fluid is sent to a special laboratory where the fetal cells are grown for chromosomal typing and biochemical tests.

Antenatal diagnosis is done mainly in pregnancies in which there is high risk of having an abnormal child. When the test results are negative, the parents are spared considerable anxiety in the last six months of pregnancy. On the other hand, when the tests show a defective fetus, parents have two choices. They may wish to let well enough alone and take their chances. Five of every six couples, though, elect to have an abortion.

THE RESULTS of an amniocentesis take about three weeks and the test costs approximately $100. It also determines the sex of the fetus. Screening for fetal defects is suggested when the mother has had one child with a chromosomal defect. Intrauterine tests are also recommended when one of the parents has a known chromosomal aberration that could lead to mongolism. The age of the mother also plays a role because pregnancy after 40 increases the risk of having a child with a genetic defect. Screening also is suggested for any pregnant woman over 35 who has a child with a chromosomal defect.

Mongolism affects one in 600 babies. This means that the thousands of children born with this type of mental retardation will need special education or total institutional care. It is impossible to screen all pregnant women to determine which of them is carrying a fetus destined to develop mongolism.

BUT WE could screen pregnant women over 40 years of age because they run a slightly greater risk of having a child in whom there was a mistake in cell division. In other words, if amniocentesis were done on this 1.8 per cent of all pregnant women, 23 per cent of all mongoloids could be detected. If we dropped the age to 35, 8 per cent of all pregnant women would be screened and 50 per cent of the mongoloids could be diagnosed before birth.

COLD SORES

A. L. N. writes: Cold sores keep cropping out above my upper lip. Some say they are due to a virus; others, to a vitamin lack or to an upset stomach. Are any of these possibilities likely.

REPLY

Yes. Cold sores are viral infections that often follow colds and indigestion. We do not know why some people are bothered more than others with these lesions. Immunity plays a role in that some people are more susceptible. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this condition.

NIGHT BLINDNESS

H. D. writes: Does a person inherit the tendency to night blindness?

REPLY

Possibly, but there are many known causes of night blindness. Among these are vitamin A deficiency, prolonged exposure to sunlight, old age, and certain eye diseases.

Interior Boss Still Viewing Governor's Bid

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton reports he has yet to make up his mind about a possible bid for the Maryland governorship. The next election will be held in November.

"I will not rule out the possibility of running for governor," Morton told newsmen yesterday before a state GOP fund-raising dinner here. But he said he is "not now a candidate. I never make up my mind in the winter what I'm going to do in the fall."

State GOP Chairman Edward Thomas and other state Republican leaders have said Morton would be a strong candidate for their party. Morton represented Maryland's First Congressional District for eight years before his appointment in 1971 as interior secretary.

Reappointed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has reappointed San Francisco attorney Sherman Chickering to the state Fish and Game Commission for a six-year term. Chickering, 62, is a Republican.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, light air pollution.
San Jose, clean air.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitorgen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

FORECASTS:

San Francisco Bay Area: Rain, heavy for a time and gale winds 25 to 45 m.p.h.; early tonight, then decreasing rain and wind late tonight; partly cloudy and cooler Thursday with chance of showers; high Thursday in the 50s; low tonight in the mid 40s to low 50s; winds becoming westerly 10 to 25 m.p.h. Thursday; chance of rain 80 per cent tonight and 30 per cent Thursday.

Sierra Nevada: Heavy rain tonight; snow as low as 5,000 feet north tonight; clearing from the north Thursday but snow showers likely at higher elevations through the day; turning colder in the north tonight and south Thursday; southerly gales over ridges and passes tonight.

Napa and Sonoma valleys: Heavy rain early tonight with southerly gales 20 to 40 m.p.h.; decreasing rain and wind later tonight, then partly cloudy and cooler Thursday with chance of showers; low tonight and high Thursday at Santa Rosa 46 and 53; light winds Thursday.

Effect Of Petaluma's Plan Aired

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Bay Area housing construction would be slashed by 25 per cent by 1980 if a Petaluma ordinance limiting new housing to 500 homes a year were extended region wide, a land use economist said yesterday.

Claude Gruen, testifying in U.S. District Court, said such an extension would mean 105,000 fewer dwelling units by 1980 in the nine county region.

The building industry is seeking an injunction barring enforcement of the 1972 Petaluma growth limit ordinance, which sets a standard holding the city's population growth to 6 per cent a year.

Robert T. Anderson, special counsel for Petaluma, argued that any claim that Petaluma's policy has an impact outside that community of 30,000 is irrelevant. He said the growth ordinance setting limit of 500 new homes a year through 1977 was a reasonable exercise of police power regulating land use.

The issue of such land regulation could go to the U.S. Supreme Court for a final decision, U.S. District Court Judge Lloyd Burke said during the trial's first day Monday.

Gruen said the nine-county region, based on past growth patterns, would require 430,000 new housing units through 1980. He said Petaluma-type growth limits would adversely affect lower and middle income families in the $8,000 to $14,000 a year range.

Anderson has claimed that the housing limit is needed until 1977 in Petaluma, because the city's ability to provide waste and sewage service was overtaxed by surging home construction in 1971.

Argentina's First Nuclear Reactor

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina has set off its first self controlled, nuclear fission chain reaction to power an electricity plant, the government announced yesterday.

Officials at the Atucha plant near Buenos Aires said they expect it to be in operation in April.

DRAKE'S FLAGSHIP SAILS AGAIN

"With a fair wind and a bone in her teeth" as old tars say of the waves breaking under her bow, a full-sized replica of Sir Francis Drake's flagship the Golden Hinde cruises off the coast of England in sea trials. The ship, a copy of the vessel in which Drake visited California in 1579, was built by Marin County businessmen Albert D. Ellidge and Art Blum. It will be sailed late this year to San Francisco Bay. New interest in Drake was spurred last week when two researchers revealed that they believe they have located the site of Drake's fort in Bolinas.

Measure On Medical Records Use Is Killed

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to halt trafficking in confidential medical records was killed yesterday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The bill, SB 447 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was cut down by opposition from lobbyists for the insurance industry. It had been introduced at the request of the California Medical Association.

The bill was aimed at the insurance companies' practice of sharing medical records with commercial organizations, including credit groups and employers.

The release of confidential medical information is triggered when applicants for life or health insurance, or persons filing claims for personal injury, sign waivers authorizing their doctors to release their records. The waivers are so broadly worded that they amount to a lifelong release of such information to virtually anyone with access to the data bank, according to Behr.

His bill would restrict the release of such medical and psychiatric information. Only information on record before the release was signed could be given out and the organization given a waiver would be prohibited from sharing the information with anyone else without prior approval of the patient.

The 13-member committee, which had sat on the measure since last March, voted 5-5 on it, with three members absent. It was the fourth time the bill had come before the committee, but the first that Behr had attempted a vote.

The senator conceded the split vote was "the end of the ball game" for his bill. Other legislators, however, have pending bills on related issues that could be broadened to cover medical records, his staff said.

The insurance industry objected the bill would protect fraudulent insurance claims from detection and thus hike premiums. The medical profession countered it was needed to protect the confidential relationship between doctor and patient. Both sides are among the most potent lobbies in the Capitol.

Wakefield's Bill Over Rights Dies

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure reversing California's ratification of the Equal Rights amendment has been killed in a legislative committee, but its author pledged to get the issue before voters.

"We'll work on a referendum, and if that's not successful, we'll go and get some signatures," Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield told a disappointed audience after his resolution (AJR26) was declared dead in the Assembly Judiciary Committee Tuesday.

The vote was 2 to 4, with at least six votes needed for approval.

California in 1972 became the 22nd state to ratify the amendment, which calls for absolute equality between the sexes. So far, 30 states have voted ratification. In order for the amendment to become part of the U.S. Constituion, approval from 38 states is needed.

Wakefield's supporters, including Speaker of the Nebraska Legislature Sen. Richard F. Proud, argued the amendment was a "political swindle" and "the worst thing that ever happened to women.

Bill Banning Names List Sale Is Dropped

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to prohibit state sale of names and addresses of drivers and car owners has been dropped in the face of strong opposition from the mailing list industry.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, dropped his bill (SB 1325) before a vote was taken by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee. It had been on the committee's agenda since May.

Quiet lobbying against the bill reportedly also was conducted by the Department of Motor Vehicles, which makes money from selling its records.

Behr predicted similar legislation will be introduced this session. Rules bar him from reintroducing the measure himself until next year. Previous bills to ban the sale of department record have been killed repeatedly.

The drive against the bill was led by the R. L. Polk Co., a nationwide firm that prepares mailing lists for commercial firms, the senator's office said.

Z'berg Serves A Short Drunken Driving Term

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Veteran Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg quietly checked into the county jail last Friday just after he was sentenced for drunken driving and ended up with a shorter term because of a jailhouse mixup, it was disclosed yesterday.

Z'berg entered the jail at 5 p.m. Friday and was released at 7:30 a.m. Sunday — nearly 10 hours short of his 48 hour sentence.

Jailer Fred Reese said normally an inmate serving a two-day sentence can be released any time on his second day in custody.

But Z'berg's specific sentence of 48 hours was not discovered, Reese said, until after the 47-year-old Sacramento Democrat was released Sunday morning.

In sentencing Z'berg to jail, Municipal Court Judge Haven Courtney gave him 45 days in which to comply. Z'berg, who has served in the legislature since 1958, apparently went directly to the jail after he left the courtroom.

It was Z'berg's second conviction for drunken driving since 1969. Under a state law effective Jan. 1 second drunken driving convictions are punishable by a mandatory two days in jail.

Asked about his jail term, Z'berg said, "Even though my attorney advised me there are good grounds for appeal, and even though I have a valid defense, I decided not to appeal."

Further appeal, Z'berg added, "that it might give the impression I was trying to use the system for my own benefit and receive special treatment.

"This very brief experience has caused me to become more aware and concerned with the plight of those touched by the system, and also that the Legislature should support any improvements at the state and local level on our processes of justice," he added.

Z'berg, chairman of the Assembly Conservation and Natural Resources Committee, was arrested Nov. 17, 1972, after his car rear-ended another vehicle. There were no injuries. His previous conviction was in 1969. He pleaded no contest to that charge and was fined $302.

Courtney, visiting from the Atwater Judicial District, sentenced Z'berg to 30 days in jail but then suspended 28 days for the duration of one-year probation. He also fined Z'berg $625 and ordered him to participate in the court's "Alcoholic Re-Education Program."

Bill Gains In Senate To Create Energy Czar

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill creating a state energy czar advanced to the Senate Finance Committee today after clearing its first legislative hurdle over protests of public utilities, major industries and oil companies.

The Democratic-sponsored bill would grant Resources Secretary Norman Livermore Jr. czar-like powers to lower speed limits, curtail gas station hours, allocate fuel to industry and take other steps to cope with the energy crisis.

The measure (SB1479) by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, was approved by the Senate Public Utilities Committee yesterday on a 6 to 0 bipartisan vote.

However, Sen. Randolph Collier, chairman of the powerful Finance Committee, said today he expects major changes will be made in the bill before it reaches the Senate floor to meet objections by the Reagan administration.

Collier, D-Yreka, said he has been told that Reagan wanted the czar to be his secretary of business and transportation instead of the secretary of resources. Collier indicated he would approve of the switch.

The Business and Transportation Agency deals primarily with the state's economy and highway system while the Resources Agency puts more emphasis on protecting the environment.

At the Senate committee hearing yesterday, John Bury, spokesman for Southern California Edison, complained that the new energy czar would be granted "awesome power with very little guidance or safeguards."

Other officials for energy producers contended the bill would create a wasteful state bureaucracy that would be overshadowed by the federal government. They also noted it would overlap current state agencies, particularly Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke's Energy Planning Council and the Public Utilities Commission.

But Alquist told the committee he had "little sympathy" for objections by oil companies and public utilities "because they are the ones who are responsible for getting us into this sorry mess. It is high time to teach them some responsibility."

Alquist said the bill's most important provision would require quarterly reports on energy supplies and demands by the state's energy producers and users.

Protest Deadline Past For Alaska Oil Pipeline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An environmental organization allowed a deadline to pass without raising a new constitutional challenge today to construction of the Alaska Oil pipeline.

The Washington-based wilderness society has previously delayed the start of the project by court action but a spokesman said its lawyers could find no basis for a successful challenge of the constitutionality of a pipeline act passed by Congress.

The 60-day limit for such a challenge thus passed and Assistant Attorney General Wallace H. Johnson, in charge of the Justice Department's Land and Natural Resources division, said this meant the way is now clear for the Interior Department to begin issuing construction permits immediately.

The society previously won a lawsuit challenging the pipeline because existing law would limit the right-of-way to 25 feet. The proposed pipeline needed a much broader right of way.

State Super Shoppers Seeking Out Fraudulent Sales Schemes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — the state Attorney General's office has deployed a squad of "super shoppers" to protect California's customers by tracking down phony advertising and sales gimmicks.

The squad — which has members in Sacramento, San Francisco, and Los Angeles — is also putting together an army of volunteer college students who shop large and small stores to check the validity of advertisements, sales practices and comparative practices.

"They have been very, very effective," Herschel Elkins, chief of the state's Consumer Protection Division, said in an interview yesterday. "They're telling us what's going on in the market place."

Although the program is presently on a three-month experimental basis, the shoppers are beginning to put cases together on illicit merchandising.

The group consists of a housewife in Sacramento, two former female teachers in Los Angeles and a male in San Francisco. The attorney general's office would not release the names of the "shoppers" because officials said they use their real names when conducting their investigations.

The Sacramento shopper — who has been a housewife for some 20 years — reads the newspaper each day and then walks into downtown stores to find out if sale items are on sale.

"I have found that short stocking is the most frequent violation," the woman said This is when a store will advertise a sales item and then put only a few up for sale.

She said the Consumer Protection Division will begin keeping files on frequent violators and when enough information is gathered a legal action will be brought. The woman began "super shopping" in the Sacramento area last month.

Elkins said the two shoppers in Los Angeles have been working for almost three months and their term of work has been extended.

Elkins said in addition to their investigations into all areas of shopping, the members are organizing college students throughout the state to do the same. The volunteers will report to the shoppers.

"The attorneys in the consumer protection unit just didn't have the time to do this," Elkins said.

The market place investigators are paid on an average of $700 per month.

Elkins said to his knowledge California is the first state to employ the shoppers.

Court Rules Absentee Jail Ballots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that absentee ballots must be provided to citizens in jails who have not lost their right to vote.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, writing the majority opinion in the 7-to-2 decision, said that a New York statute providing for absentee balloting applies equally to persons in jail, otherwise they are denied "equal protection of the laws" if unable to vote.

New York law permits persons convicted of misdemeanors or awaiting trial to vote and the decision was not concerned with statutes suspending a felon's civil rights, including the right to vote.

A New York appeals court had held that the state law on absentee balloting did not require government to provide voting facilities for jail inmates, although mobile voting and registration units are used in some New York county jails.

Overturning this decision, Burger wrote that "New York's election statutes, as construed by its highest court, discriminate between categories of qualified voters in a way that, as applied to pre-trial detainees and misdemeanants, is wholly arbitrary."

The case was filed by 72 inmates at the Monroe County Jail who tried to register and vote in the 1972 elections. The county elections board denied the request and the county court ruled for the jail inmates. The appeals court overruled the decision and itself was overturned by the Supreme Court decision today.

Burger noted that an inmate of the Monroe County Jail who resides in another county can vote by absentee ballot because he is "unavoidably absent from the county of his residence" as provided in the statutes.

But Monroe County residents in the same jail were denied the right to vote.

This was unfair and unreasonable, Burger said, because it "denies appellants the equal protection of the law guaranteed by the 14th Amendment."

Gasoline Allocation Guidelines Listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal rules outlined yesterday for allocating motor gasoline cover only the wholesale or bulk purchase customers. Rationing of gasoline to the individual auto driver is still a last resort under a standby system officials hope never to have to use.

The allocations for gasoline would base supplies on two sets of guidelines — current requirements and a base period.

Those getting their current requirements are in better shape — their allocation would be 100 per cent of what they say they need to keep their business or services going. Those getting only a percentage of a base period will usually get somewhat less than they would like.

The rules define the bulk purchaser as an end-user — a corporation or business or association buying allocated fuels for storage in bulk and subsequent reuse. The wholesale purchaser is defined as a person, firm or cooperative buying fuels in bulk or under contract at the wholesale level, including:

Those agricultural users consuming more than 20,000 gallons a year.

Those multifamily residences consuming more than 50,000 gallons a year, and

All other purchasers normally buying more than 84,000 gallons a year.

The rules provide suppliers will furnish bulk and wholesale purchasers 100 per cent of current requirements for the following uses:

Agricultural production,
Emergency services,
Energy production,
Sanitation services,
Telecommunications services, and Passenger transportation services.

Suppliers will furnish bulk or wholesale purchasers 100 per cent of their base period volumes for all other business activities. The base period for each current month is the corresponding month of 1972, so that a customer whose business has grown substantially since 1972 will have a substantial cutback in his gasoline use.

Each state will maintain an emergency "fund" of gasoline amounting to 3 per cent of the supply, for emergencies and resolving disputes.

A supplier's or wholesale customer's base period can be adjusted to allow for new customers and to reflect "unusual growth since base period," the regulations say. For gasoline, "unusual growth" is defined as 10 per cent a year.

New customers would apply to their suppliers to be assigned a base period volume.

Wherever a statistic or record is used to prove a need, the fact is to be certified to the Federal Energy Office, which can track down those who lie about their needs.

Traffic On Bay Bridge Shows Drop

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — With gasoline short, vehicle traffic on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge plummeted last week 14.1 per cent below what was expected.

The figure reflected what is happening generally on bridges where travelers have a choice between driving and taking a bus.

On the Bay Bridge, AC Transit said bus patronage was up 15 per cent in mid-December. Figures for last week had not yet been compiled.

Bridge officials said today that total traffic last week, the first normal one after the holiday season, dropped 11.1 per cent.

Bill Seeks Secrecy In Vote Record

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to make voter records showing if a person has signed initiative petitions secret has been introduced by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco.

The measure, SB 1507, would leave affidavits of registration as public records, but make confidential the key to the symbols used by elections officials to assure that each voter has not signed a particular petition more than once.

Marks said that "whether a citizen favors an initiative to legalize marijuana, restore the death penalty or recall an elected official should be as sacred as the secret ballot on election day."

The present system of making public the key to the symbols permits anyone to "get a complete profile of a voter's political beliefs," Marks said. His bill would outlaw "this sort of political snooping," the senator said.

To Resume Duties

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — John Scali, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, has recovered from heart surgery and will return to New York tomorrow to resume his duties.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KTVU (2), 8 p.m. — Cameras accompany four brave men to the very top of the world, 29,028 feet above sea level, on the National Geographic special, "Americans on Everest."

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 8 p.m. — Darren McGavin stars in the "Night Stalker," an unusual suspense drama about a down-on-his-luck newsman who fights censorship from his boss and the police to prove that Las Vegas is being terrorized by a vampire. Carol Lynley, Simon Oakland and Claude Akins also star in the "Wednesday Movie of the Week" presentation.

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 9:30 p.m. — A once-famous hunter comes out of retirement to help track down what appears to be a mad killer wolf and discovers that it is no mere animal he is hunting, but an animal that may take human form in "Scream of the Wolf." Peter Graves, Clint Walker, JoAnn Pflug and Phillip Carey star in the second feature of the "Wednesday Movie of the Week."

KGO (7), KNTV (11), 11:30 p.m. — Steve Allen is panned and praised, barbecued and boosted in a celebration of his 25th anniversary in television during the "Wide World of Entertainment" special presentation of "Hi, Ho, Steverino - a 25th Anniversary Salute to Steve Allen." Honored guests at the celebration include Milton Berle, George Burns, Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence.

Hotel Causes Some Hot Water

LONDON (UPI) — A hotel has mailed apologies to thousands of British men for any embarrassment caused by a circular letter announcing the reopening of its restaurant.

A spokesman for the Carlton Tower Hotel said the letter ended with "I look forward very much to greeting you again." This raised suspicions of many wives about their husbands, he said.

He said the mailing list was selected by an agency and did not necessarily include previous clients.

Tanker Traffic Is Said Normal

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Jack Robertson, head of the Federal Energy Office here, Monday said investigations by the federal government, including the U.S. Navy and Coast Guard, indicate there has been "no unusual tanker traffic" in West Coast ports.

Robertson said he asked for the Navy and Coast Guard checks because of persistent rumors that oil tankers were lying at anchor with full loads waiting for prices to rise or had been turned away from depots because there were no empty storage facilities.

Study Of BART Problems Slated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — At the request of a state Senate committee, Lawrence Laboratory of the University of California has agreed to study the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's problems.

Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose said Monday the laboratory had agreed to accept $10,000 for an initial study into a BART rail tube connecting San Francisco and Lakland.

Jack Benny 'Farewell' is Just The Second Of Many

NEW YORK (AP) — Benjamin Kubelsky, a native of Waukegan, Ill., was in town the other day to catch a few shows, observe the snows and publicize an NBC-TV special he'll star in come Jan. 24.

The show's title is "Jack Benny's Second Farewell Special." Kubelsky, who uses the alias of Jack Benny, emphatically denied the title is the McCoy and that he really plans to retire from show biz after some 62 years in the profession.

"Naw," he said, lighting a cigar and propping a foot on the coffee table in his hotel suite. "This has nothing to do with retirement. There's only one gag about it in the show."

He said the title exists only because he found that audiences in Las Vegas and elsewhere recalled his "First Farewell Special" on television last year and laughed when he urged them to watch his second adieu.

"And I tell you," Benny said, "it's tough enough for an audience to remember your last show. But when they can remember a title — well, I told my manager if we don't use the title again we're crazy.

"Now I tell the audience we're going to do the third, the fourth, the 90th farewell. But it all depends how this works out. I don't know. I had another funny title they laughed like hell at.

"Shows hot they do remember things. I was going to call it 'Benny with a Y'. . ."

Benny with a cigar was asked if he wouldn't give show biz "retirements" a bad name if he persisted in "farewell" specials.

"No, it's been done before, of course," he said, citing the famous cases of Harry Lauder and Sarah Bernhardt, who made so many farewell tours their bye-byes could stretch from here to China."

Obvious question, but why do performers do that sort of thing?

"Well, they didn't do too many," Benny insisted. "But the minute you do a couple, you see, right away it becomes funny to the public.

ABC-TV's late-hour effort tonight hails Steve Allen's 25 years in television, not with a special, but with a show biz "roast" called "Hi, Ho Steverino - A 25th Anniversary Salute to Steve Allen."

The guest of honor could have been Howard Cosell again.

Mantle, Ford Elected To Baseball's Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, two "rollicking rogues" during the New York Yankees' glory years under Casey Stengel, were elected today to Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Mantle is only the seventh player to gain election into the Hall on his first year of eligibility. Ford fell 29 votes short last year when Warren Spahn was the only player elected in nation-wide balloting by 10-year veterans of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

To be elected, Mantle and Ford had to appear on 75 per cent of the ballots. This year 365 ballots were cast, which meant they had to be named on at least 272 to be enshrined in the Hall at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Mantle had 322 and Ford 284.

The 42-year-old Mantle, who was seen about town last night and therefore immediately became a prime candidate to be named a Hall of Famer, joins Spahn, Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller and Sandy Koufax as the only players elected in the first balloting after a retirement period of at least five-years.

Ford, 45, made a tremendous splash as a Yankee rookie in 1950 with a 9-1 record and it was no secret the left-hander was certain he had the credentials to make it into the Hall on his second shot at the balloting.

"Neither Mickey or I ever talked about getting into the Hall after we retired," Ford said. "If I did have a chance, though, I always felt I wanted to be taken in the same year as Mickey."

Other strong candidates among the 45 possibilities submitted to the writers were former National League home run king Ralph Kiner, who missed by 49 votes last year, Atlanta Braves manager Eddie Mathews, seven-time 20-game winner Bob Lemon and Roger Maris, who broke Babe Ruth's single-season home run record when he hit 61 homers in 1961.

Mantle, whose 536 career homers place him sixth on the all-time list, and Ford, who won 236 games during his career, played on 12 and 11 Yankee championship teams, respectively between 1950 and 1964. They were also noted for their free interpretation of training rules established by Managers Stengel and Ralph Houk and were among the players involved in the famous Copacabana incident which led to the trading of Billy Martin and Hank Bauer in 1957.

One of the most powerful sluggers in baseball history, Mantle combined speed and power to a remarkable degree. He compiled a .298 batting average during his career, was the American League's home run king four times and won the triple crown in 1956 when he batted .353, hit 52 homers and drove in 130 runs. His career total of 536 homers is surpassed only by Ruth, Hank Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Robinson and Harmon Killebrew.

Ford, a medium-sized left-hander with a variety of stuff, had a 236-106 won-lost record and a .690 per centage. He was a 20-game winner twice and had a 10-8 record in World Series competition. He also holds the World Series record of pitching 33 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings.

Robin Roberts, a Philadelphia Phillies pitcher, drew the third highest total with 224 as he failed to make the grade. Ralph Kiner had 215 and nine other players drew 100 or more votes.

The Sun Also Rises On A Sports Scribe

I'm going to have to rearrange the furniture around in this sports shop. Oh yes, there is room enough for the three of us — Lew Coddington, Ron Lent and myself — but my typewriter is facing the wrong way.

Twice this week there have been beautiful sunrises just about the time I was deep into a column, something about someone making a tackle or another guy doing something just as physically important in the world of sports.

BUT THE OFFICE WINDOW is directly in back of me. I have to make an 180-degree turn to catch any of the new day's splendor. Thank goodness for my swivel chair. If I were facing the opposite direction I would be able to stare straight over my writing machine — an old Underwood which appropriately is gray in color — and become inspired by the beautiful pink and red tints which blanketed the buildings and surrounding hills upon the dawning of a new day. There was even a rainbow with the sunrise, a beautiful sight, and on a Monday to boot.

Because of the switch to daylight savings time, everybody is getting a chance to see just how pretty a sunrise can be. It's making farmers of us all. The problem is that we can't wait for the rooster's crow or we'd all be late for work and school. I still don't know how we are saving fuel by having the lights on in the morning instead of night, but someday I hope it will be explained to me.

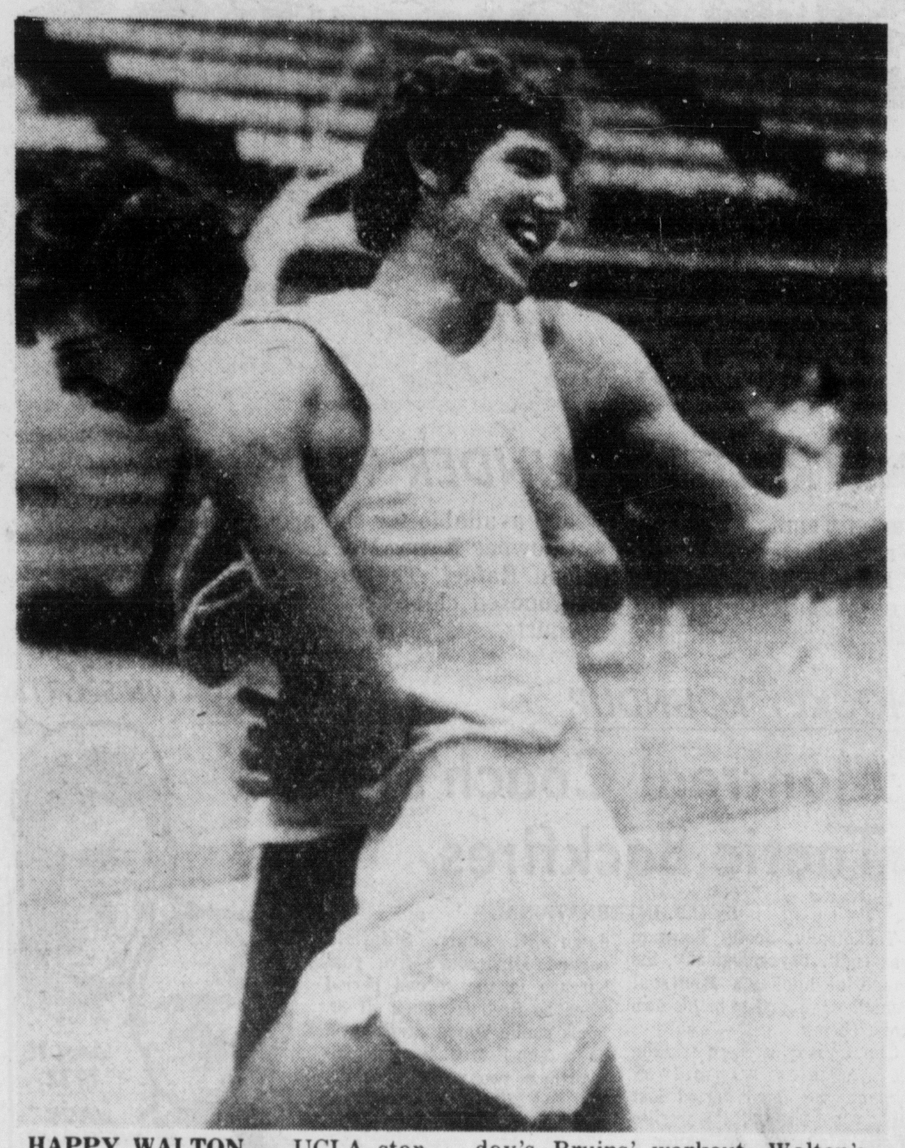

ANYWAY, WITH THE beautiful sunrise in back of me, I can look up from the keyboard and feast my eyes on a map of Marin County and a bookcase crammed with sports reference books of all kinds. I can look it up and tell you how many home runs Babe Ruth hit in 1933, without even turning around. I can even pinpoint the location of Gunpowder Road in Sleepy Hollow on that three-color map. But I'll be darned if I can see a sunrise without twisting my neck out of shape.

Being able to see the sunrise is one of the more important things in life, but it's one of those things that too often is taken for granted. Believe me, I would just as soon spend more of my time seeing the birth of a new day, although that would do nothing to help me meet my deadline. But who wants to turn his back on a thing of such beauty?

MOST EVERYBODY THINKS something has to be expensive to be worth watching, but you really get a bargain seeing a sunrise such as that which greeted all of us Monday and Tuesday. It's free. It's only for this reason that many grumpy old souls rolled out of bed, glanced outside at the sunrise, grunted and complained about the gas shortage. If there were an admission price tagged onto the viewing of a sunrise you wouldn't be able to keep the townspeople from lining the streets, pushing and shoving for choice locations.

But just when I got all turned around ready to greet this morning's sunrise, what did I see? Drab, gray skies and rain, rain, rain. It caused me to turn my desk around again and look at that familiar map and all those reference books.

What's that? You want to know who pitched the most strikeouts in 1919? Just a minute and I'll look it up. The book's right in front of me.

West NBA Stars Whip East, 134-123

Lanier Wins MVP Honors

SEATTLE (UPI) — Big Bob Lanier of Detroit carried the Most Valuable Player award into the West dressing room following his team's 134-123 triumph over the East in the 24th NBA All-Star game last-night.

"I want all you guys to take a good look at this, since you helped me earn it," grinned the 6-11 Lanier, who popped a game high of 24 points before a record crowd of 14,360 at the Seattle Coliseum.

Both coaches, the West's Larry Costello of Milwaukee, and the East's Tom Heinsohn of Boston agreed it was one of the best all-star games seen in many years and both described it as "one hell of a game."

Portland's Sidney Wicks with 11 points and Lanier and Seattle's Spencer Haywood with 10 each helped build the West's lead to 66-47 at the end of the first half.

The East refused to fold, however. A jump shot by New York's Dave Debusschere with 3:46 left narrowed the West margin to 120-115. That wilted to 120-117 when Elvin Hayes of the Capital Bullets dropped in a pair of free throws.

Costello admitted he was "sweating a little bit" at this point but, with Jabbar holding down the pivot and Lanier playing forward for the first time since high school, the West held on.

Haywood said there was a different attitude among the players this year and the teams threw friendly taunts at each other from adjoining dressing rooms before the game started.

"The atmosphere was a lot different from previous years when some guys just said 'let's get it over with.' This time the guys were saying 'we're going to beat you,' " Haywood said.

San Rafael Win Led By Stewart

By LEW CODDINGTON

Sometime in the future they will figure out how to computerize sports journalism. Every story will be written to a formula, and every San Rafael Hign School basketball story will begin: "Byron Stewart scored X points and grabbed Y rebounds yesterday as . . ."

For yesterday's game against Marin Catholic, X was 22 and Y was 18, which is about typical when the lanky, 6-foot-7 senior center is on his game. But there really was more to it than that as the Bulldogs rolled to a 63-46 victory before about 450 fans at San Rafael.

"We need a solid performance out of 11 guys," said coach Bret Tovani, and they got it. Statistically measurable contributions included 10 points from Eric Wheeler, 10 points from Steve D'Ambra and nine from Arthur Brooks, and half a dozen others played well without it showing up in the statistics.

The victory gave San Rafael a 3-0 Marin County Athletic League record, tieing the Bulldogs for first place with Redwood, whom they play Friday. Marin Catholic is 1-2 in the MCAL.

"We stress defense," said Tovani. "They (players) must hear about defense 100,000 times a year. We applied ourselves today."

Marin Catholic coach Dave Gonsalves chalked the loss up to poor shooting and "just not playing well," but the effect was the same. The Wildcats hit only 16 of 47 shots for 34 per cent, connecting just twice in the first six minutes of the third quarter as San Rafael shot out from a 29-23 halftime lead to a 45-28 advantage.

San Rafael statisticians showed the Bulldogs with 42 per cent from the floor (23 of 55), with Stewart hitting 11 of 16 from both outside and inside. Stewart's 18 rebounds led San Rafael to a 37-22 advantage there.

Marin Catholic missed muscular 6-4 center Tom Cronin, out for the third straight game with the measles. Gonsalves said he would begin practice Thursday. Mike Mahoney led the 'Cats with 14 points.

San Rafael guard Kevin Gallivan, in his second game after returning from an injury, came off the bench to play well — just another example of Tovani's prized bench, which also contained Wheeler, Brooks and Gary Patterson.

Walton Ready For Irish

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bill Walton's bruised back is all right and college basketball's Player of the Year in 1972 and 1973 is ready for Notre Dame.

That was UCLA basketball coach John Wooden's diagnosis yesterday after his 6-11 superstar, wearing a corset and performing at near maximum efficiency, rejoined the Bruins for a 90-minute workout.

"He's much better than I hoped for," said Wooden, who leaves with his club today for a two-game invasion of the Midwest, including a Saturday afternoon national TV game at No. 2-rated Notre Dame.

"Bill is moving so much better now," he added.

Wooden had said that if Walton didn't practice with the Bruins Monday or Tuesday he would leave him home from the two-game trip, which will open with a game at Chicago against Iowa Thursday night.

Walton, who is averaging 18.3 points and 15.9 rebounds, missed the Bruins' Pacific-8 games against California and Stanford with a back injury. Despite his absence, the Bruins won both games handily to stretch their NCAA record victory string to 87 games.

Early Spurt Lifts Redwood Over Tam

By TOM THOMPSON

Perhaps the most crucial moment in Redwood High School's 50-45 Marin County Athletic League basketball victory over Tamalpais yesterday came at the end of the first quarter.

With Redwood ahead by one point and 38 seconds left in the period, Tam was attempting a one-shot offense, when Redwood stole the ball, and John Hoffmire made a layup and was fouled, resulting in a three-point play. Tam then took the ball inbounds, but threw it away again and Randall Miller scored from the floor, putting Redwood ahead, entering the second quarter, 12-6.

After that, the Indians fell behind by as much as 12 points in the second period, before they charged back to tie it up with 3:01 showing on the clock. Redwood then took advantage of two Tam violations by scoring on both possessions and putting the game out of reach.

About 600 fans in Larkspur watched the victory, which tied Redwood for the MCAL lead with San Rafael with a 3-0 record, half a game ahead of Drake's 2-0. Tam is 1-2.

Csonka, Teammates Limp Out Of Camp

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins' contingent to the Pro Bowl, bruised and battered in their 24-7 Super Bowl win over Minnesota last Sunday, began limping out of the AFC camp here yesterday.

Earlier yesterday, offensive tackle Wayne Moore was excused from the game after undergoing a medical examination. Moore is nursing a twisted knee.

Two other Dolphin starters, offensive guard Larry Little and halfback Mercury Morris, were expected to be examined today by NFL doctors.

Csonka, who set a Super Bowl rushing record against the Vikings, required stitches on his face after the game. An NFL spokesman said Csonka, Stanfill and Warfield left camp after being told to report to a doctor for examinations.

Warfield has been nursing a pulled muscle since the week before the Super Bowl, while Stanfill said he suffered bruised ribs in the Vikings game.

Oakland running back Marv Hubbard was named to replace Csonka, and Denver wide receiver Haven Moses will fill in for Warfield. No immediate replacement was named for Stanfill.

CEDENO OUT OF JAIL AS A FREE MAN

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI) — Houston Astros outfielder Cesar Cedeno walked out of court a free man today after his lawyer paid a $100 fine imposed by the court yesterday for the involuntary manslaughter motel-room shooting of a young woman.

A family friend said Cedeno and his 21-year-old wife Cora planned to return to Houston as soon as possible to await the start of spring training.

Marin Cagers Face Solano '5'

College of Marin, bogged down in a shooting slump and struggling through its first three Camino Norte Conference basketball games, will have a chance to put things back together tonight at 8 o'clock against Solano College in Suisun City.

They will have to, because a confrontation with league-leading De Anza looms Saturday night in Cupertino.

Solano, the conference tailender in recent years, stands 0-2 on the eve of its first home game in league play. The Falcons gave De Anza a tough battle Saturday night before being outscored in the closing stages, 22-7, in a 77-60 defeat.

Marin, which had been California's last undefeated team, was knocked from its lofty perch Saturday in Kentfield by Foothill College of Los Altos, 54-48. Foothill and De Anza are tied for the lead at 3-0 and Marin stands 2-1 in the league, 14-1 overall.

The defeat did not come as a complete surprise, for Marin earlier had eked out five-point victories over Alameda and Santa Rosa.

Marin's shooting touch apparently vanished with the last hours of 1973. In those three games, the Tars have made only 34 per cent of their shots (62 of 180).

They compensated against Alameda and Santa Rosa by going to the boards, but that tactic was denied them by Foothill's Bob Ross. A 6-foot-10, 220-pound straw would break any camel's back.

CONSTRUCTION UNDER WAY

Construction of the Canon Tennis Club at the intersection of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Glenn Drive in Fairfax has started, with completion of the eight-court facilities planned for early June. Charter memberships are available for the private club, according to owner Barry MacKay, 1435 Fourth Street, San Rafael. The drawing above depicts the proposed clubhouse surrounded by the eight courts.

Pace Picking Up In Virginia Slims

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Six of the eight seeded players, with Chris Evert and Billie Jean King leading the way, moved into second-round singles play today in the $50,000 Virginia Slims Women's Tennis tournament.

Miss Evert, 19, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., given No. 1 ranking by the computer for the first event of the 1974 women's professional tennis tour, teamed with second-ranked Mrs. King of Emeryville for a doubles victory last night at Civic auditorium.

Playing together for the first time, they easily beat Karen Krantzcke of Australia and Wendy Overton of Ormond Beach, Fla., 6-3, 6-0 to move into the quarter-finals of the doubles, which offers $3,200 as the first prize.

Neither Miss Evert nor Mrs. King played singles yesterday when the first-round was completed. Both have singles matches tonight — King against Betty Stove of The Netherlands and Evert against Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego.

Third-seeded Nancy Gunter of Lake Livingston, Tex., showing an improved service, breezed past Tory Fretz of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-4. Miss Gunter is matched today with Karen Hantze Susman, the 1962 Wimbledon champion who is trying for a comeback at 31 after a decade of only intermittent tournament play.

Mrs. Susman displayed a strong serve in winning yesterday over Lesley Hunt of Australia, 7-5, 4-6, 7-6.

Bull Coach Motta Fined, Suspended

Combined AP & UPI

CHICAGO — National Basketball Association commissioner Walter Kennedy yesterday suspended Chicago Bulls coach Dick Motta for a week and fined him $2,000 for his stormy protest following the Bulls' 103-101 overtime loss to the Seattle Supersonics in Seattle Jan. 4 the Bulls announced.

Kennedy's action, taken in Seattle preceding the annual NBA All-Star game, was the most severe publicly announced punishment in the history of the league.

Kennedy said that following the Bulls' loss at Seattle, Motta and the team refused to go to their dressing room. He charged that Motta blocked the way of the game officials as they tried to leave the court, and that he allegedly twice placed his hand on one of the officials.

Motta and several of the Bulls kicked the 24-second clock and other articles of standard coliseum equipment, one of which deflected into a policeman, Kennedy's office said.

More Basketball

LOS ANGELES — Long Beach State will have basketball starters Roscoe Pondexter and Glenn McDonald for at least three more games, because a temporary restraining order, issued last week by U.S. District Court Judge Manuel Real, was continued yesterday until Jan. 28.

SAN FRANCISCO — Franklin Mieuli, owner of the Golden State Warriors, said yesterday he plans to make a year-long sailboat trip around the world after the National Basketball Association season ends.

Tennis

CINCINNATI — A match in San Diego Feb. 7, 9 and 10 will launch the 1974 $250,000 "Tennis Grand Masters Tour," promoter Al Bunis announced yesterday.

Football

NEW ORLEANS — Wimp Hewgley, offensive line coach for two years under Weeb Ewbanks with the New York Jets, will assume the same post with the New Orleans Saints.

Billiards

LOS ANGELES — Former world pocket billiards champion Willie Mosconi of Haddon Heights, N.J., picked up 21 points to 11 for England's Rex Williams last night to take a 94½ to 26½ lead in the $20,000 Black Velvet Challenge Exhibition.

Yachting

SYDNEY, Australia — Australian champion Russell Slade, sailing Baragoola, won the fourth race of the 5.5-meter World Yachting Championship off Palm Beach to take the lead in the series.

Baseball

MONTREAL — Righthanded pitcher Joe Kerrigan, the Montreal Expos' No. 1 selection in last week's free-agent baseball draft, was signed to a minor league contract, the National League club said yesterday.

Redwood Wrestlers Triumph

Redwood High School, getting a couple of unexpected victories when they were most needed, defeated San Rafael yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League wrestling match at Redwood, 34-30.

Yesterday's other match saw Tamalpais defeat visiting Drake, 50-17, to retain the league lead with a 3-0 record to Redwood's 2-0 and San Marin's 1-0.

In what Redwood coach Wes Price called "the match of the day," 167-pounder Joe Silva won a 13-9 upset from San Rafael's Jay Hickey. Another crucial victory came when Bernard Cantayre (135), up from the junior varsity, scored six points in the final period to top the Bulldogs' Jerry Roach, 6-3.

San Marin was to host Terra Linda today at 6:30 p.m. Tomorrow's schedule calls for Novato at Drake, 4 p.m., and San Marin at San Rafael, 6:30 p.m.

Standings

Suburban's Sullivan Leads Cage Victory

Jim Sullivan scored 16 points for Suburban Auto last night, offsetting 18 points by Little Store's Dave Morey and giving Suburban a 64-43 victory in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league play at Davidson Junior High.

In another game, Bob Banovec netted 14 points and Jim O'Connor 13 as Fourth and D Copy Center defeated the San Rafael Ward Saints, 50-38.

Frosh Basketball

Joe Yetter scored 21 points and Lance Phillips 17 yesterday to give Marin Catholic High School a 54- 53 victory over visiting Redwood in a Marin County Athletic League freshman basketball game. Jeff Stewart scored 19 for the Giants.

Raiders Vs. 49ers On Court

The San Francisco 49ers and Oakland Raiders, who sometimes meet each other on the football field for dollars, will be clashing on the basketball court for Dimes.

The teams will play a benefit game Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. at the University of San Francisco gymnasium to raise money for the San Francisco March of Dimes campaign against birth-defects.

(The two teams will also meet March 12 at Redwood High School in Larkspur, proceeds of that one going to the school's athletic department.)

The 49er team, appearing to have an advantage of speed and agility, will include Gene Washington, John Isenbarger, Mel Phillips, Bruce Taylor, Skip Vanderbundt, Dick Witcher, Cas Banaszek, Randy Beisler, Cedrick Hardman, Ted Kwalick, and Dave Olerich.

A drawing will be held at halftime, with prizes including blocks of four tickets to Warriors, Seals, Giants and A's games.

Tickets cost $3 and are available at Bay Area Roos-Atkins stores and March of Dimes offices. Game costs are being underwritten by the Bay Area McDonald's restaurants.

Tarkenton Share To Charity

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton has donated his entire "losers" share of Super Bowl earnings—$7,500—to help retarded children and drug addicts.

"I really mean it sincerely when I say I don't want anybody's gratitude for trying to help in this way, and I don't think any other football player should feel the same obligation," Tarkenton said yesterday.

"I've been playing for a long time (13 years). I've prospered partly through the efforts of other people. Being in the playoffs with the Vikings has been the greatest experience of my athletic career."

HOCKEY ROUNDUP

Montreal Coach's Tactic Backfires

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Technically, Scotty Bowman was right. Psychologically, the coach of hockey's Montreal Canadiens proved to be his own worst enemy.

The Canadiens were trailing Los Angeles 2-1 midway through the third period last night when Frank St. Marseille of the Kings was called for a penalty. It was at this point that Bowman protested the use of an illegal stick by Los Angeles goalie Rogie Vachon.

After a measurement, Bowman's protest was upheld and Vachon was assessed with a penalty, forcing the Kings to play two men short for two minutes. But it proved to no avail for the Canadiens who still wound up losing 2-1.

"Bowman has so much talent of his own that he doesn't have to pull something like that," said Vachon who turned aside 24 Montreal shots. "My team was so mad they played like they never played before. While they were killing both those penalties they really stood up in front of me. I've never been happier to win a game. It's the first time I've beaten the Canadiens since they traded me three years ago."

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League, Minnesota beat St. Louis 5-3, the New York Islanders edged Atlanta 4-3 and Vancouver downed Toronto 4-2.

In the World Hockey Association, Los Angeles outfought Quebec 6-4 and Edmonton beat Minnesota 4-1.

Bill Goldsworthy and Fred Stanfield scored twice as Minnesota overcame a 3-0 deficit to down St. Louis. Stanfield capped Minnesota's five goal barrage in the second period when he fired the puck off St. Louis goalie Wayne Stephenson on a 2-on-1 breakaway. Goldsworthy's two goals were his 24th and 25th, tops in the West Division.

Craig Cameron's 11th goal of the season midway through the second period proved to be the winner for the Islanders in their triumph over Atlanta.

In a game in which a WHA record 159 minutes in penalties were doled out, the cellar-dwelling Los Angeles Sharks roared back with four goals in the final period to defeat Quebec. Forty-one penalties, also a league record, were meted out. The old marks were 146 minutes and 29 penalties set by the same two clubs here Feb. 24, 1973.

The opening period included a 15-minute brawl as both teams emptied onto the ice. A total of 110 minutes in penalties, 94 from the brawl, were handed out.

Meloche Might Rejoin Seals' Lineup Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals savored a couple of pieces of news as they readied for tonight's tussle with Toronto in the Oakland arena.

Owner Charles Finley confirmed this week that he will sell the team and goalie Gilles Meloche may be ready to return to action tonight for the first time since he suffered a skate slash on his right hand in practice Nov. 25.

Meloche is considered fit to play but coach Fred Glover has not announced his starter and may want to inspect the goalie's hand today after a rough series of practice sessions this week.

When he was hurt, Meloche had a 3.78 goals-against average. Since then, four netminders, including backup man Marv Edwards who is also out with an injury, have yielded 4.21.

Toronto, which has taken the Seals three out of three this season, will go with Doug Favell, who sports a 2.73 average.

The Seals had a dismal 9-28-5 record, but have won almost half of their home battles.

mond-and-one defense. The defense is a variation of the box-and-one, in which four men play a zone and the fifth (yesterday Steve Trobbe) guards the opponents' star, which means that the high-scorer will always have at least one man on him and two when he has the ball. Dinehart scored only once from the floor in the first half, but came back to total 20 points for the afternoon.

Holding Dinehart in the first two periods "may have set the tone for the game," said winning coach Dick Hart. "Trobbe did an excellent job of handling Dinehart."

Darrell Elder scored 16 points for Redwood and grabbed 13 rebounds. Only Neil Hennessy (10) also scored in double figures for the Giants as Hart substituted heavily.

New Grid Project Unveiled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gary Davidson, a veteran league-builder who helped organize the American Basketball Association and the World Hockey Association, unveiled his new project to the sports world yesterday — the World Football League.

Davidson, a Newport Beach, Calif., attorney, said the WFL will not steal players from the established National Football League during the NFL player draft next Tuesday in New York.

"We don't want to raid anybody," Davison told a news conference. "We just want to provide a broader opportunity for all players to play."

College players will be selected in next week's draft but the WFL will hold a secondary draft in February after the NFL teams have made their selections.

"We will be going after both college graduates and the pros," Davidson said, adding that most NFL "superstars" would probably be prevented from switching leagues in 1974 by the one-year option to the NFL standard players' contract.

Franchises for this season are already being organized in 12 U. S. cities, Davidson said, and negotiations are under way with groups in Tokyo, Mexico City and in some European cities.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Rules Of The Wave

Courtesy and consideration for the other fellow plays a big part in boating safety, yet every day you find more and more boaters acting selfishly and inconsiderately.

Boating used to follow a gentlemanly, unwritten code which held that no one should be in too much of a rush to give way courteously to any other boat encountered. But nowadays boaters have increasingly adopted the same dog-eat-dog attitudes prevalent on the highways. I'm surprised that there aren't more accidents.

It's a sad situation because it invites more restrictive legislation, unless we can set high standards ourselves.

Here are some questions from readers on this topic:

Q. In a narrow channel can I blow my horn to make the guy ahead of me move over so I can pass?

A. No, No, No! The boat being overtaken has the right of way, and the law says so. If you should injure him in any way, you'll wind up in jail and get sued for every nickel you've got. Be considerate. He might be afraid that he's going to bump into something. If you've taken up boating to get places fast, try flying.

Q. Don't those giant Lake Superior ore carriers have to obey the rules? My friend says he's going to force one to give way one of these days with his 40-foot boat. Can he?

A. I hope he lives to boast about it. His 40-foot boat is a thousand times more maneuverable than a 20,000-ton ore carrier. Some of them require two miles to stop. Even if he has the right of way, without question, it would be only courtesy to the captain of the huge unwieldy ship for a fast maneuverable boat to yield. Besides, it's sheer stupidity not to.

Q. I was anchored, fishing, when a guy stopped his outboard and chewed me out for being in the channel. What's the rule?

A. That depends where you were in the channel. If you were in the traveled part of a waterway normally used by water craft, he may have had a right to criticize you. No one is permitted to obstruct a navigable waterway —which, in an extreme case, could even be a small stream. Nobody would park a car in the middle of the road, even in the boondocks. Or would they?

Q. The sign says "SLOW — 6 mph." That's the speed at which my boat makes its biggest wake, and is the most dangerous. Should I really observe such a crazy sign?

A. All over the country you'll see signs on waterways, channels, canals and harbor entrances, with speed limits being enforced so that wakes will not erode seawalls or endanger small or moored craft. Yet most planing hulls would make less wake or wash if they went faster. Again, the answer is to be courteous. Slow down to a crawl if the circumstances require that you make no wake.

Q. I ran over a swimmer. He was not hurt, but complained to a sheriff's officer. I was not charged with an offense. Am I just lucky?

A. If the swimmer was inside a marked swimming area, you are very lucky that you are not in jail for reckless or negligent handling of a boat. But if the swimmer was well outside of a beach area, in waters where swimmers are not generally found, that it's not reasonable to expect you to see him. Again it's a matter of consideration. Keep a good lookout.

Q. Is there a law which limits the length of time someone can hog a public launching ramp?

A. No. It can be very frustrating when you want to get your boat in the water and some fumbling greenhorn is holding you up. Here's a suggestion: try being patient, neighborly, courteous and instructive. You were a greenhorn once, so help the guy out.

Q. Isn't a sailing craft with an auxiliary engine a motorboat in the eyes of the law?

A. Yes, in most states, but only if the engine is running and actually driving the vessel. It must conform to all the rules governing powered craft, and it loses all the privileges of a saildriven craft if the engine is on. If the engine is stopped, and it's being driven by wind power, it's a sailboat once again.

Weekend Racing Is Scheduled

Eight local drivers will compete this weekend in the indoor motorcycle and midget auto racing at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa.

Mill Valley's Fenn Pervier and Terry Otton, Petaluma's Earl Coates and Larry Drew, Novato's Kelvin McIssac and San Rafael's Mark Lamke will be among the 250 racers Friday starting at 7 p.m. in the third round of the American Motorcycle Association Sportsman racing.

Saturday at 8:15 p.m., first-year men Marlin Kentopp of Rohnert Park and Merv Sartori of Petaluma will be among the Midgets drivers. The Midgets are sanctioned by the Bay Cities Racing Association.

Both evenings are designated as Helmet Nights with the first 75 children under 12 years old with an admission ticket receiving crash helmets and goggles.

Friday tickets cost $2.50 for adults, $2 for juniors and $1 for youngsters 6-12. Saturday prices are $3 adults, $2 juniors and $1 youngsters 6-12. Children under 6 will be admitted free.

Marin 'Cats, Redwood Win J.V. Cage Tilts

The junior varsity basketball teams from Marin Catholic and Redwood high schools defeated their opponents yesterday to keep their Marin County Athletic League records perfect at 3-0.

Marin Catholic's Wildcats defeated host San Rafael (1-2) behind Steve Hossfeld's 22 points, and Redwood trounced visiting Tamalpais (0-3) as Chris Melony tallied 17.

MILBURN ZELL
New president

Zell Heads Wildlife Federation

Milburn Zell will be pounding his conservationist gavel on the most important lectern yet as the newly-elected president of the California Wildlife Federation.

Zell, 56, of San Rafael, took office Sunday immediately following his election by the representatives of the 112 clubs and 14 councils which make up the statewide organization, meeting in annual convention in Fresno. He succeeds Harold Hockmuth of Los Angeles.

A three-time president of the Marin Rod and Gun Club, Zell was elected first vice president of the CWF in 1970 and reelected each succeeding year. His presidential term will be one year.

"My plan now is to establish a good legislative program to enhance the position of the sportsman and citizens in general," he said.

The CWF, representing some 50,000 Californians including hunters, fishermen, riflemen, archers and four-wheel drive vehicle drivers, has been active in conservation and other activities associated with the outdoors since its inception in 1957.

A native of Salem, Ohio, Zell was carried west by his 25-year Marin Corps career in which he rose to the rank of sergeant major, one of only 186 in the entire corps at the time.

He currently works for the Cling Peach Advisory Board in San Francisco, and is secretary of the Marin Rod and Gun Club, in which he has held numerous offices over the years.

Rancho Bombed By Analy Five

By PAUL DWORIN

Rancho Cotate High School was dominated from the opening tip-off last night and suffered its worst defeat of the season, a 63-35 Sonoma County League rout by visiting Analy of Sebastopol.

After moving ahead 14-9, at the start of the second quarter, Analy outscored the Cougars, 15-0, to take a 20-point lead that was never less than 17 points thereafter.

The loss, before a crowd of 500 in Rohnert Park, dropped Rancho Cotate's SCL mark to 1-2, while the league-leading Tigers raised theirs to 3-0.

In other SCL court action last night, Casa Grande scored an upset with a 47-38 victory over host Piner in Santa Rosa. The Gauchos are now 2-1, just one game behind co-leaders Analy and Cardinal Newman (Santa Rosa).

For Rancho Cotate, the loss was due to an inability to shoot from anywhere on the court and to an inordinate number of turnovers. Time and again the Cougars fell to the pressure of Analy's zone press and threw the ball away.

When Rancho Cotate did manage to get the ball to its side of the court it was just as disastrous, as the Cougars made just 23 per cent of their shots from the field for the entire game.

Things got so bad for the Cougars in the fourth quarter that with two minutes remaining they missed two straight uncontested layups, followed by a Chris Callinan shot that went to the bottom of the basket only to come back out.

Analy, on the other hand, was hot all night — particularly in the second half when coach Bob Diehl cleared his bench. The Tigers connected on 48 per cent from the field for the night.

Rancho Cotate was led in the scoring column by senior forward Scott Wlodarczyk, who put in eight points. Jay Bartholomew hit a game-high 12 points for Analy, and Bob Montgomery added 11 tallies in a relief role.

Casa Grande was behind by seven points going into the fourth quarter, but the Gauchos outscored Piner, 20-4, in the final period. Dan Lutz, taking over for the injured Tom Davini, led the fourth-quarter surge.

Davini hit four out of his first five shots, but came out of the game early in the second quarter. He is expected to be out for at least a week.

City Helps Pay Padre Bonuses

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The City of San Diego is going to put up $71,000 to pay bonuses for three San Diego Padres.

Mayor Pete Wilson yesterday announced the City Council voted to advance the funds to the beleaguered National League club after the Padres' millionaire owner, C. Arnholt Smith, said he could not make the payments.

The players, all draft choices of the Padres, are Dave Roberts, Dave Winfield and John Grubb.

"The only alternative to this action would have been that the bonus payments would not have been made and the players affected could today have become free agents and would have been released from their contractural obligations to play for the Padres," Wilson said.

Smith's U.S. National Bank last year was declared insolvent in the biggest bank failure in American history. He also is the target of a $24 million tax lien filed by the Internal Revenue Service.

Yesterday's payment, Wilson said, was in the "best business interests" of the city.

Cossack J.V.'s Romp

VALLEJO — The Sonoma State College junior varsity team last night raised its overall basketball record to 9-1 with a 126-99 victory over the Maritime Academy. Bill Gricius led the Cossacks with 35 points.

Bad Start Fatal For St. Vincent

St. Vincent High School last night scored just five points (all on free throws) in the first quarter, and lost a 47-40 nonleague basketball game to visiting Cloverdale in Petaluma.

The Mustangs' loss dropped their overall season mark to 6-6. Friday they resume North Central League II play at Point Arena.

In court non-action last night, Tomales canceled its scheduled affair with the College of Marin freshman team due to minor injuries.

The Mustangs were down by 10 points at halftime, but outplayed the Eagles in the second half. "I was impressed with our defense," commented St. Vincent coach Ed Major, "especially in the second half."

Tom Lounibos and Dan Tocchini led St. Vincent with eight points each, while Doug Dilley poured through 19 points to pace the Eagles.

Press, Ball Control Give Petaluma Win

NAPA — Petaluma High School used a full court press and ball control tactics in the second half here last night to beat Napa, 61-51, for its first North Bay League basketball victory of the season.

The victory raised the Trojans' NBL mark to 1-2, putting them into a four way tie for third place with Napa, Vallejo and Hogan (Vallejo). It was also the first win for Petaluma since it beat Napa in the Drake Tournament one month ago.

Petaluma was down by six points at halftime (after falling behind by 13 points early in the second quarter), but its press forced numerous Indian turnovers and gave the Trojans a five-point lead going into the fourth quarter.

With three minutes left in the game, the Trojans went into a stall to protect their four-point margin. This forced Napa to foul, allowing Petaluma to build up its lead to the final 10 points via the free throw line.

Petaluma's second-half superiority was spearheaded by Dan Aldridge and Mike Maselli. Aldridge connected on six of seven free throws in the fourth quarter, giving him eight of 12 for the night and a game-leading 18 points. Maselli put in eight of his 13 tallies in the third quarter.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Mutual Funds And Ventures

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. It is my understanding that some mutual funds invest in venture capital situations. If so, would you tell me which ones? — D.F.

A. As a general rule, mutual fund participation in new ventures follows either the equity or debt path. Equity participation through acquisition of restricted or "letter" stock fell into disrepute after the debacle of 1969-70 when several "go-go" funds encountered serious problems as a result of holding substantial amounts of these nonmarketable securities. Most funds which invest in "letter" stock do so in a very limited way. Usually, less than 2 per cent of total assets is committed to restricted securities and these are pinpointed in detail in their financial reports to shareholders.

There are, however, a few closed-end funds still in existence which specialize in restricted stock. Five of these investment companies came into existence in 1968 and 1969. Of these, three have since changed their names and at least one has modified its investment policy so that marketable securities will gradually replace letter stock in its portfolio. Three ASE-listed issues in the venture capital field are:

Diebold Venture Capital, Highland Capital and Value Line Development Capital. Nonmarketable securities comprise 85 per cent, 32 per cent and 83 per cent of their respective portfolios as of June 30, 1973.

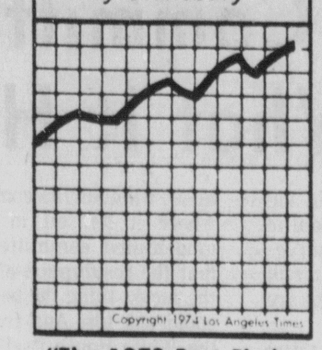

Another group of closed-end investment companies specialize in debt securities of newly emerging companies. These are referred to as direct placement bond funds. All of the six funds operating in this field are managed by well-known insurance companies. John Hancock Investors, MassMutual Corporate Investors and State Mutual Investors trade on the Big Board at varying discounts from net asset values. The remaining three, Federated Income & Private Placements, Lincoln National Direct Placements and Paul Revere Investors, are unlisted. The yields on these investment companies range from 7.7 per cent to 10.5 per cent and all but MassMutual and John Hancock pay on a monthly basis.

Oil Stocks Lead Gain On Market

Noon volume totaled approximately 6,500,000 shares compared with 6,070,000 shares up to the corresponding time yesterday. Opening on the Big Board was delayed 15 minutes because of a failure in the computer facilities of Merrill Lunch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc., the exchange's largest member firm.

Stocks associated with the proposed Alaskan pipeline gained broadly, with Ohio Standard up 3 ⅜, Exxon 2 ⅛, Phillips Petroleum 1 ⅝, Alaska Interstate 1 ¾, Amerada Hess 1 ⅞, and Union Oil of California a point. The Justice Department said environmental groups would not challenge the pipeline in federal court.

Gold mining issues fell sharply, reacting to news financial spokesmen from the world's major trading nations have proposed using 14 leading paper currencies to supplant gold as the monetary basis of international commerce. Dome Mines dropped 7 ⅝, Campbell Red Lake 6 ⅜, ASA Ltd. 4 ⅝.

Occidental Petroleum led the actives, adding 1 ⅜ to 13 on 325,700 shares, including a 112,000-share block at 12 ¼. The company recently said it had found a way to extract oil from oil shale at a cost far below earlier projections.

Stocks advanced in light trading on the American Exchange. Giant Yellowknife, the volume leader, fell ⅝ to 19 ½ on 37,800 shares.

Among higher Big Board glamors, National Semiconductor rose 2, Polaroid and ARA Services 1 ½ each, and Burroughs 1 ¼.

Dupont, up 2 ¾, led the higher blue chip chemical group.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Better Itemize If Deductions Exceed Standard Allowance

It has always been better to itemize deductions if they amounted to more than the standard deduction. For many years, the standard deduction was 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income. Last year, for 1972, the standard deduction was 15 per cent of your adjusted gross income with a maximum of $2,000.

In other words, if your adjusted gross income is $13,333 or more, you can take the maximum standard deduction of $2,000. If your itemized deductions are more than 15 per cent of your adjusted gross income, it's a good idea to itemize your deductions.

Here is a list of some items that are usually deductible. Some are deductible as itemized deductions on page 2 of your tax return and some are deductible as business expense deductions on Schedule C of your tax return. Some are deductible in connection with the production of taxable income, either rents or royalties on Schedule E, Part 2, of your tax return.

Accountants' fees; administration expenses of estates; alimony, support and separate maintenance payments; amortization of bond premium; some attorneys' fees; some bad debts; baseball players' uniforms; baseball team equipment for business purposes; bond premium of bonded employee; bookmaker's expenses; business expense; business gifts; carrying charges; casualty losses in excess of $100; charitable contributions; some club dues; some commissions paid on real estate or securities; some compensation paid; contributions to state unemployment insurance and state disability; some contributions to self-employed retirement plans; some custodian fees; depreciation, business property held for production of income; some dues; some education of employees; some auto expense; some entertaining customers.

Be sure to read the instructions before claiming any of these. One person's deduction is not necessarily the same for someone else.

Women Realtor Group Honored

The award was presented Tuesday January 8 by Jane King Fairchild, president-elect of the California Women's Council of NAR.

Men Like Zurcher Aren't Found Often

If you were looking for a community leader, a man dedicated to improvement of his city and willing to work unstintingly for it, you would not likely look to a toy shop operator — unless that toy shop operator were named Walter Zurcher.

Very much such a man was Mr. Zurcher, whose untimely death came Sunday of a heart attack. We say untimely because, though he has passed his allotted three score and 10 years, Walter Zurcher was still as active and as much looked to for leadership among San Rafael's business community as he had been for most of the 25 years since he established the San Rafael Toy Shop.

Another merchant put it baldly but accurately to us just last year when he commented, "It seems too bad that, to get anything going downtown, we have to look to a 70-year-old man."

That 70-year-old man, of course, was Walter Zurcher.

FOR YEARS he was among the most active supporters of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, and served on innumerable committees for it. He was a sparkplug of the chamber's downtown merchants committee. And when many others bemoaned the decline of the downtown, Zurcher was forever pushing ideas for its improvement.

It was quite typical that he was one of the foremost spokesmen for San Rafael's redevelopment program when it came under heavy attack from some quarters at the outset. It is too bad that he will not be with us to see its completion.

All those in the business community will miss Walter Zurcher. And many others will miss him too.

Besides his civic-mindedness, he had other attributes which are never in too great supply. To all with whom he came in contact — customers, acquaintances, other businessmen, public officials — he was always pleasant, courteous, good natured. And whatever the press of business and private affairs, he was never too busy to give time to what he saw as worthwhile civic endeavors.

IN HIS BUSINESS, too, Walter Zurcher was farseeing beyond the average of retail merchants. He built up a chain of three toy stores — in San Rafael, Vallejo and Napa. Then, looking forward to his own retirement, he sold the Vallejo and Napa stores to his employees, and planned to do the same with the San Rafael store if he could find a new location, being unable to renew the lease of the present quarters which expires in April.

He planned to retire then. But no one who knew Walter Zurcher thought for a moment that retirement would mean inactivity. It would just mean more time for him to devote to his civic interests.

We have lost a personal friend. So have many other residents. The City of San Rafael has lost one of its best citizens. Because men like Walter Zurcher just don't come around very often.

Resumption Of Ervin Committee Hearings Should Depend On What It Has Uncovered

WASHINGTON — It only seems a generation. Actually it was merely a year ago last week when Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., disclosed that he had asked Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., to chair a senatorial investigation of what was then so neatly labeled "Watergate."

Ervin did, with elan. He and his committee played a leading role in uncovering the greatest political scandal in United States history — yes, it deserves that superlative although there is still more under cover, which the culprits are still struggling to keep there.

Yet now, after all that has happened in this past year, there is some question about whether the committee will pick up where it left off in the fall. We hear unidentified committee-watchers opining that the resumption of hearings would be the nicest thing the besieged White House could ask for. And from the direction of the White House itself, we hear that any further hearings would be a politically motivated fishing expedition.

"Your door was stuck, so I showed these fellows another opening."

The humor in the use of such quaint phrases in the company that organized the vast politically motivated bugging, blacklisting, burglarizing and so on still under investigation might have escaped the general public a year ago. But by now the public has become sophisticated, the hard way. It is obvious, to the remotest hermit, that the White House is mortally afraid the reopening of the Senate hearings could signal the closing of the Nixon era.

IF THERE IS ANY reason to terminate the Senate hearings now, it is based on their success in the past. Consider these highlights of the 1973 investigation:

1 — The calm testimony of James McCord, that first week, that the attorney general of the United States had been privy to a whole series of interconnected illegal operations — and that the president himself must have known about it. From these hushed moments on, it seemed anything the committee could lay out had to be either repetitive or anticlimactic.

2. — John Mitchell's own concession that the re-election of the president took priority over everything else at hand, including enforcement of the law.

3 — John Dean's detailed allegations of presidential awareness, which have yet to be disproved.

4 — Alexander Butterfield's sensational disclosure that every conversation in the president's offices had been tape recorded for roughly three full years — and all that has flowed from the disclosure, including the White House's frantic efforts first to withhold the tapes, then to explain away the indisputable fact that they have been tampered with. That struggle goes on to this very day.

5 — The cumulative impact of the hearings in converting the huge cast of villains and informants from a confused jumble of names in the papers to a series of men with faces — faces that showed guilt, arrogance, evasion, embarrassment, even sometimes shame.

HUNDREDS OF OTHER specific disclosures could be listed. But that overall impact was most important. When the hearings began in April, a Gallup Poll indicated that 53 per cent of adult Americans still thought Watergate was "just politics —the sort of thing both parties engage in." By November, when they recessed, there was serious, widespread support for Mr. Nixon's impeachment.

Of course the hearings were not solely responsible for that development. The firing of Archibald Cox, the fall of Spiro Agnew, the steady march of other events joined to push the president to the brink. The Senate hearings provided the raw material out of which those events grew.

The only argument for cutting off those hearings, before they get into Howard Hughes, ITT, the milk deal, Bebe Rebozo and so on, is that public opinion slowly has forced the system to act, rather than merely talk and ask quesitons. The action now is in the House Judiciary Committee, which eventually will return an up-or-down vote on impeachment.

IF FURTHER SENATE hearings are so thoroughly prepared that they will clarify, rather than confuse, the House committee's deliberations, then they should be held where the whole country will see them. If the Senate committee staff has a mass of raw, inconclusive data likely to lead in circles, it should turn its findings over to the House body where it can be evaluated beyond the glare of television lights, then acted on.

Either way, the Senate committee has carried out the historic job Mike Mansfield laid down for it what seems a generation ago. "The quesion is not political, it is constitutional," Mansfield said then. He was more right than he could have realized.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND: Democrats Gloomy

WASHINGTON — Here are some of the more interesting views being advanced by political professionals:

1 — The Democrats are far less confident about winning the next presidential election than the Republicans.

2 — It will, in the main, be moderate Democrats — not the ADA-type liberals — who will swell the Democratic majority in the congressional elections this fall.

3 — It will be the state of public opinion more than ideology which will determine whether the House of Representatives votes impeachment.

4 — Democratic party leaders are expecting that Gov. George Wallace will be a formidable influence at the 1976 national convention.

WITH FORMER Vice President Spiro Agnew forced to resign because of admitted crimes, with the president weakened politically because of Watergate, with numerous administration officials either in jail or in legal jeopardy, with the nation's economy very uncertain, it seems surprising that the Democrats should be looking at 1976 as an unlikely year to win the White House. On the surface it looks like a shoo-in. Beneath the surface the Democrats see trouble.

They see a Republican asset which they can hardly match. That is, a presidential nominee in Vice President Gerald Ford, who fits the times and who would be untouched by Watergate. They consider Ford the most valuable political property in Washington.

They also see the Democratic party as possessing two political weaknesses which do not plague the Republicans.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY contains two sets of extremists — the New Left and the Wallace right — and either group is quite capable of bringing defeat to the party.

The New Left is a constant threat to run a third-party candidate — such as Eugene McCarthy — if the convention refuses to give it a nominee and a platform to its liking.

The Wallace supporters — and they are many — have even greater leverage. If they don't get a nominee and a platform substantially to their liking, they can walk out and vote Republican.

Finally, the Democrats have no fresh political figure to match Gerry Ford. The favorites most widely supported by rank and file are Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.; Governor Wallace, and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash. Few see Governor Wallace as the nominee. Senator Kennedy would be easy to nominate but harder to elect, and Senator Jackson would be easier to elect but harder to nominate.

Finally, the Democrats need no one to remind them how easily Vice President Calvin Coolidge, personally uninvolved in the Teapot Dome scandals of the Harding Administration, was elected in 1924.

These are the principal reasons why the Democratic leaders are quite unoptimistic about 1976.

BUT THE DEMOCRATS are totally confident that they will greatly increase their strength in both House and Senate this fall. The deep conflicts within the party nationally do not handicap Democratic congressional candidates locally. Sen. George McGovern's massive defeat did not keep the Democrats from winning Congress overwhelmingly. But the Democratic liberals have already won seats in districts which are normally theirs. This fall the Democrats will be seeking gains in normally Republican districts and the winners will be mostly on the more conservative side.

As to a House decision in impeachment, there will be anti-Nixon and pro-Nixon votes which won't be affected by public opinion. But uncommitted congressmen won't relish coming down on either side, and in such a situation they will be disposed to be responsive to what they conclude is the public wish. At this point there is no evident majority for impeachment.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Educators Question Compelling School Attendance Beyond 14

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

For a half century, almost everyone has accepted the idea that children should be compelled to attend school to the age of 16 or 18 (depending on the state in which they resided). Increasingly, however, this is being questioned.

It is interesting that most of the questioning comes from educators.

THE IDEA of forcing children to attend school began taking hold in the 19th century, but only two states had compulsory attendance laws by 1870, according to an article by William M. Landes and Lewis C. Soloman in the Journal of Economic History for March, 1972. By 1900, all northern states but only two southern states had compulsory attendance laws. But by 1920, all the states had such laws. Enforcement, however, has varied from state to state and from locality to locality.

In California, compulsory attendance is required until high school graduation or age 18, whichever comes first. To encourage enforcement, the state bases its school fund allocations on average daily attendance (in practice, the average number answering a roll call on specified days).

A RECENT REPORT sponsored jointly by the Council of Chief State School Officers, National Association of Secondary School Principals, American Association of School Administrators, and Parent-Teacher Association proposed that the compulsory attendance age be lowered to 14 years.

The National Commission on the Reform of Secondary Education, which is supported by the Charles F. Kettering Foundation, concluded after making its own study: "The nation does not need laws that force adolescents to go to school. It needs schools and school-related programs that make adolescents wish to come."

The foundation's report, published last month as a paperback book entitled "The Reform of Secondary Education," advocates lowering the compulsory attendance age to 14 but guaranteeing 15 years of public schooling to all who wish it.

Howard M. Johnson, associate director of the Bureau of School Service and Research at University of Washington, contended in an article in the December issue of Phi Delta Kappan that it simply is impractical to try to force students into high school. He cited a drop within five years from 80 per cent to 73.5 per cent attendance in New York City high schools despite expensive enforcement efforts.

MOST PARENTS, however, do not agree, according to a Gallup Poll in 1972. It found 73 per cent of those questioned favored compulsory attendance through high school. The same poll found a small majority of educators — 56 per cent — similarly minded.

The idea of lowering the compulstory attendance age is attacked by some as leaving children subject to exploitation by commercial interests, as they were in the last century.

The value of compulsory school attendance as a deterrent to juvenile crime was shown by an experimental program in 1971 in Sacramento schools. Police and schools cooperated in intensive enforcement of attendance laws in three crime-prone areas. This resulted in many "dropouts" returning to school, where expanded counseling and "alternative" instruction programs were provided. According to Paul B. Salmon, executive secretary of the American Association of School Administrators, "The overall crime rate in the three areas dropped 40.4, 50.3 and 45.9 per cent."

Largely overlooked by advocates of lowering the compulsory attendance age are child labor laws which shut out those under 16 from virtually all employment except baby sitting and carrying newspapers. As long as these laws remain unchanged, the teen-ager must choose between school and idleness — and the latter is likely to lead to crime, as the Sacramento figures show.

The National Commission on the Reform of Secondary Education may be indulging in wishful thinking when it suggests schools "that make adolescents wish to come" — at least as far as the public schools are concerned. Tenure laws and increasing unionization of faculties make it well nigh impossible to staff high schools with the kind of teachers that would be necessary, even if school boards and administrators were farseeing and intelligent enough to do so.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Can't Conceive Energy Crisis Not Manipulated

I've taken the pill. I can't conceive — that the energy crisis is not man-made and manipulated by the big oil companies.

The writing is on the wall. Geothermal and nuclear power is going to replace them as they did coal.

When a half dozen oil companies can bring the whole world to its knees, it is time they were replaced.

Good Samaritans Found In Hamburger Stand

This evening around 9 p.m. my car wouldn't start. My young son and I were in trouble, but I saw two young men (customers) in McDonald's on Miracle Mile and asked if they would try to help me start my car. The battery was dead.

They came right out, one moved his truck and used jumpers and it took awhile, but they got my car started. Then I turned my lights on and it stopped again — dead! Again I went in just as the hamburgers were to be eaten by them. They came right out and started my car again — waited until my lights were on and I was on my way. They wouldn't accept any money either.

How kind they were! It was cold too! What a good example of young Americans they are! My 13-year-old son was so impressed too. It was good for him to see young men like these.

I am grateful, and whoever you are, "good Samaritans," God bless you!

Calls Apartment Design 'Architectural Obscenity'

One is fully aware that America since World War II has become morally decadent, and, for one, any day's reading of the San Francisco Chronicle's theater page should substantiate that statement, and now we continue to find it has been spilling over into other forms of expression.

The nomination of an architectural obscenity like the Pacheco Village Apartments on Marin Valley Drive for a design award says more about the Novato Plan Review Committee than a full column biography in your pages could.

There is an environmental protection act and we who must pass this architectural mish-mash daily have been overlooked.

For Schools, We Continue To Pay More, Get Less

By RUS WALTON

I have been chewing over parts of Governor Reagan's proposed budget for 1974-75. A couple of bones keep sticking in my throat.

Take public education, K-12. Specifically, take the amount of taxpayer dollars the state spends to support those schools. It will come to $2.224 billion this fiscal year and the governor wants to raise that to $2.346 billion for next year.

Back in 1966, when citizen Ronald Reagan first ran for governor, one of his key issues was the sorry record of most public schools; we were spending more and getting less, Johnny couldn't read. The inference, if not the promise, was that his administration would require accountability, stop the waste, and see that we got dollar value for dollar spent.

WELL, THAT IS NOT exactly what has happened.

Last week the governor's office released "highlights" of his proposed 1974-75 budget. Here is an excerpt from the section "K-12 Education":

"This ($2.346 billion from the general fund) represents a 74 per cent increase in state support to K-12 local schools since Governor Reagan first took office. During the same period, it is estimated that the average daily attendnace in grades K-12 will have increased only 1.1 per cent and the cost of living . . . 41 per cent."

The message, of course, is that Reagan has been a friend of public education — if not the taxpayer. Well, let's chew on that.

In 1967, when Governor Reagan took office, state support of local schools was $1.346 billion. For the coming fiscal year, 1974-75, we are asked to shell out $2.346 billion. That's an annual increase of $1 billion in just eight years.

SUPPOSE STATE SUPPORT for K-12 had been upped simply to reflect the eight-year increase in enrollment. (1.1 per cent). That would have increased the annual pay-out to $1.361 billion.

And suppose that state support had also been adjusted to reflect the erosion of inflation: 41 per cent over the eight years. That would have brought the annual expenditure up another $558 million —to a yearly total of $1.919 billion.

All told — enrollment and inflation factors —would have caused an increase of $563 million a year to maintain a public education system that left something to be desired in value received 'way back in 1967 — and still does, today.

But, we are now asked to pour out $1 billion a year more than we did then. That is an extra $427 million a year over and above increases for enrollment and inflation.

FOR WHAT? Can Johnny read any better? Compute any better? Spell any better? Has the state's K-12 education product improved —even with the excessive dollar increases of the past seven years? Are the teachers, by and large, more proficient? The materials more excellent? The administrators more efficient?

Have all those millions of taxpayer dollars bought a better education for our kids? I think not. We continue to spend more and get less.

"Nothing a fellow acquires will bring him happiness if it comes at the expense of someone else."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Daylight Saving In Midwinter Makes No Sense To Teen-Ager

"Just why are we doing this?"

The family teen-ager looked up from his breakfast, which he was munching under blazing light bulbs, and peered out the windows into total blackness.

The heat was roaring full blast in an attempt to get the chilly house up to 68 degrees, the radio was blaring away and the water heater was busily heating more water.

There didn't seem to be any answer to the question of how does it help the energy crisis to use the fuel at one end of the day instead of the other. Since 7 a.m. is getting-up time for a great many people with jobs or kids in school or both, it would have seemed more sensible to stall Daylight Saving Time until the days are longer.

IN ADDITION to the hazards to children going to school and the discomfort to those of us who have to figure out a way to get down the front steps in the dark, so as not to leave a porchlight burning all day, the new time must be a pain to some industries.

What do workmen arriving at construction sites in the pitch black do until the sun comes up? Do the utility companies and the street maintenance people have to delay starting work outdoors on these dark mornings?

At any rate, the winter Daylight Saving Time has inspired lots of humor.

"Oops, must remember to watch out for those little unmarked objects," the teen-ager said as he drove past children on their way to school in the dark.

ON THE OTHER HAND, "isn't it nice that Nixon got us all up early enough to see the dawn?" was another remark heard about Monday's remarkable skylight display, which included a double rainbow and some surrealistic pink clouds.

All in all, though, 1974 is not off to a very auspicious start, despite the pretty sunrise.

Even the weatherman doesn't seem to understand the weather, which has mostly been lousy; the colds seem to be a particularly virulent variety this year, and new real or imagined shortages crop up almost daily.

(Particularly fascinating is the apparently widespread belief that toilet paper is scarce. Despite announcements by paper companies that there's plenty for everyone, the hoarding goes on. People seem to take the t-p situation much more seriously than they have meat or gasoline shortages.)

TO TOP IT ALL OFF, my bank appears to have joined the whole host of incompetent lunatics who are running things these days.

Arriving home the other night in the dripping rain, I discovered one of those little slips informing me I had a letter at the post office with 24 cents postage due.

I delightedly assumed that it must be either from the friend in England or the friend in Greece who owe letters. (How else can you run up 24 cents due on a letter except to mail it from abroad?)

I had miscalculated, though. When a bank forgets to put stamps on the monthly statement (especially after the December spree of checks), it's easy to run up a 24-cent bill.

Anyway, it was sure fun to drive to the post office across stand in standin line, and then pay to get my bank statement.

Stern Priests Are Cautioned

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Priests who are too stern or uncaring when hearing confessions may be turning away Roman Catholics from the sacrament of penance, according to the Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano.

In an editorial signed with three asterisks—traditionally an indication that it is inspired by high Vatican authorities—the newspaper asked priests yesterday to search their souls for any guilt in what it called a crisis of confession.

It said more and more Roman Catholics were trying to solve their problems of conscience merely through the collective admission of sin at Mass rather than by confessing individual sins to a priest.

Nissan Increases Prices On Autos

TOKYO (UPI) — Nissan Motor Co., second largest automaker in Japan Monday announced another increase in the price of its automobiles because of soaring costs of materials and personal expenses.

Nissan said it raised auto prices by an average of 10 per cent, or about $267, effective today.

Reservoir Link To Quakes Seen

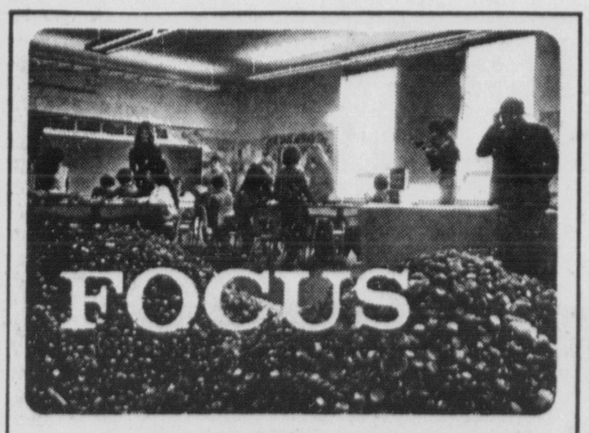

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Berkeley seismologist says there is evidence linking earthquakes with large manmade lakes and reservoirs.

Dr. Bruce A. Bolt, director of the Seismographic Station at the University of California, told a conference on Earthquake Engineering for Water Projects yesterday that thereare 12 to 15 documented cases of large reservoirs triggering quakes.

Bolt cited a dam and reservoir in China which he said was responsible for 250,000 measurable earth tremors in 13 years.

He said, however, a great many large man-made lakes have been completed and not caused any earthquakes, even though some are located in quake-prone regions.

How Much Is a Million?

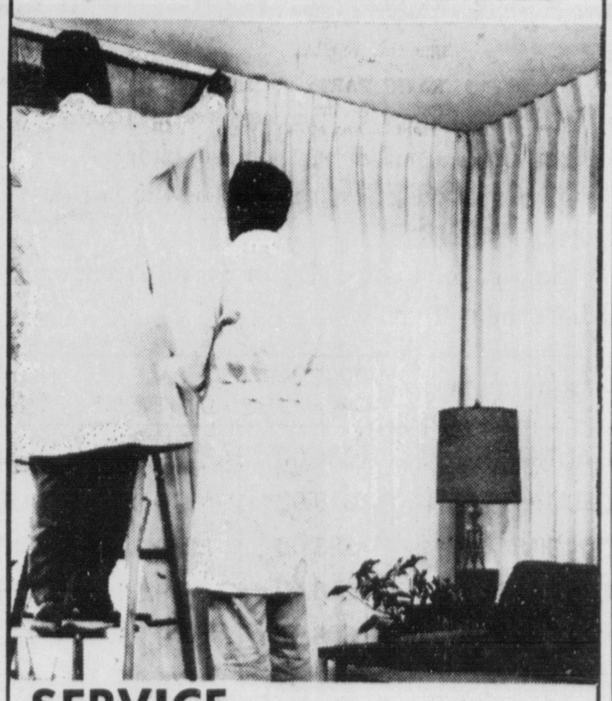

There are more than 400,000 in the 4th-grade this year at Oak Park Elementary School in Lansdale, Pennsylvania. Only 72 are students. The rest are bottle caps, which the students have been collecting since April, 1972. Their goal is to find out what a million is, a total they hope to reach before leaving 6th-grade in 1976. With donations now coming in from around the nation and even from overseas, the students have a good chance of getting the final 600,000. Luckily, the youngsters did not aim at collecting a googol. That name for 1 followed by 100 zeros was invented by the 9-year-old nephew of American mathematician Edward Kasner.

DO YOU KNOW — How big is a googolplex?
